Demo team hits road

By STEVE GERSTEL
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Admitting he was virtually starting over in his presidential campaign, George S. McGovern and his new running mate, Sargent Shriver, campaigned together for the first time today, wooing mayors, congressmen, women and minorities.

On the morning after McGovern won near-unanimous election by the Democratic National Committee for Shriver as his vice presidential candidate, the two quickly arranged conferences with a variety of groups as well as party leaders to try to make up lost campaign time.

The South Dakota senator said the past three weeks involving switching running mates had been "hard and painful" and conceded it was now like starting all over; but he said "I have a feeling this will draw us closer together. We're ready to go."

McGovern and Shriver met first for two hours with about 15 mayors in a closed session on Capitol Hill. The mayors were primarily interested in the nominees' support for legislation to funnel over $5 billion a year of federal revenues to state and local governments. They won "firm commitment" of such support.

The two then met in a closed session with Democratic senators — some of whom have been less than enthusiastic about the McGovern candidacy.

Next came a session at the Sheraton Park Hotel, site of Tuesday's extraordinary mini-convention where Shriver was nominated, with representatives of the women's caucus, a coalition of women's groups. Then a meeting with Latin-American and Spanish-American representatives.

Doves seek Viet help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House doves hope to pick up some crucially needed votes on a controversial Vietnam withdrawal amendment by changing the deadline date from Oct. 1 to Dec. 31.

A vote on the measure appeared likely for either late today or Thursday.

The provision, inserted into a $2.1 billion foreign military aid authorization, would order an end to U.S. participation in the Indochina war in exchange for release of American prisoners of war, an accounting of the missing and a limited cease-fire to permit the safe withdrawal of U.S. forces.

The original amendment drafted in June by Reps. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., and Charles Whalen, R-Ohio, set Oct. 1 as the termination date. But Whalen announced during debate Tuesday that he would offer an amendment to put it off to Dec. 31.

The change, said, Whalen, would mean that Nixon would not have to take final action until after the November elections.

Jerome vet wins airport board seat

BURLEY — A Jerome veterinarian won election to the South Idaho Regional Airport Authority Tuesday in the only contested race for three board seats.

Dr. Lawrence Ruebel defeated Dr. Jack Adams, Jerome, and Robert Fields, Gooding.

Ruebel's seat is for the 23rd Legislative District, which includes Gooding and Jerome counties and part of Lincoln County.

Also on the board are George Falkner, Rupert, who ran without opposition in the 21st Legislative District, and George Forscher, Burley, who didn't run at all, but will be on the board by default. Forscher is from district 28.

Dr. Ruebel won vote totals of 1,705 in Jerome County, 528 in Gooding County and 128 in Lincoln County, for a total of 2,357 votes.

Second-place Fields drew 1,939 votes, while Adams had 1,473.

Falkner drew 2,746 votes in his uncontested race in Minidoka and part of Lincoln County.

race for U. S. Senate this November.

Davis got in the first lick, saying in a victory speech early today the Democrats must unite to defeat McClure — an opponent he called a "slickly-packaged, highly financed Republican."

McClure called for party unity and promised an early meeting with his three primary election opponents to work out strategy for the general election.

Symms, 33, Marsing, who beat State Sen. Wayne Kidwell, 34, Boise, and Robert Purcell, 44, Lewiston, won the GOP nomination for the seat McClure is vacating in the First District.

He will meet Democrat Ed Williams, 44, Meridian, a former legislator, coach and aide to the governor, who won his party's nomination without opposition.

Voters in the Second Congressional District had no choices on their ballots. Republican incumbent Orval Hansen, 45, won nomination for a third term and Democrat Willis Ludlow, 39, a campus minister from Pocatello, the right to oppose him.

Supreme Court Justices Henry McQuade and Joseph McFadden won re-election on the non-partisan judicial ballot without opposition. Voters also nominated candidates for 105 seats in the legislature and for county offices.

McClure led from the start of the vote counting and never was headed in the four-man field.

His victory margin was more than 12,000 votes over runnerup George V. Hansen, 41, Pocatello, a former congressman from the Second District.

Dr. Glen Wegner, 33, Kendrick, a former White House staffer, ran third and former Gov. Robert E. Smylie, 57, Boise, fourth. Smylie immediately offered his help to McClure in the general election.

McClure's victory was a tribute, in part, to superb organization and planning.

How Senate, Congress candidates fared in Valley

Hansen, Davis lead Valley

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Rep. James A. McClure scored heavily in Twin Falls County Tuesday, undercutting George Hansen's strong showing in the rest of the valley.

Final, unofficial voting returns show Hansen carried the eight counties in the valley by a cumulative total of 7,828 votes to McClure's 7,998 in the race for the Republican senatorial nomination.

On the Democratic side of the balloting, senatorial candidate William E. (Bud) Davis lost three valley counties to Idaho Atty. Gen. W. Anthony (Tony) Park but rolled up winning margins in the bigger areas, including Twin Falls, Cassia and Jerome counties.

Davis took first place in the balloting in all but Blaine, Camas and Lincoln counties, with Park taking those three.

Valley-wide returns give Davis 2,011 votes to Park's 1,742.

Checks across the eight-county area showed moderate to heavy voting. In Twin Falls County, over 11,000 voters turned out at the 48 polling places, easily outdistancing the primary election turnout in 1970 and 1968.

Jerome County Clerk Virginia Ricketts said voting was heavy although not a record. Cassia County, however, reported only moderate voting, while Camas and Lincoln, the two small counties, had heavier than usual turnouts.

The two Republicans who finished third and fourth in their races statewide also trailed in Magic Valley. Dr. Glen Wegner, who has a law degree as well as one in medicine, took 1,647 votes, while former Gov. Robert E. Smylie ran last in the valley, as well as in each of the eight counties, with 2,602 votes.

Boise attorney Democrat Byron Johnson came in third in Magic Valley polls with 945 votes for the party nomination for the Senate, while Rose Bowman, Boise, was fourth with 733 votes.

Smylie, who ran last among the Republicans, nevertheless outpolled the leading Democrat, Davis by over 500 votes in the eight counties.

Two Republicans, McClure and Hansen, each drew more votes than all but two Democrats combined.

Davis outpolled Park by 250 votes in Twin Falls County voting, picking up strength in both the city and outlying precincts, and ran even with Park in the rest of the valley.

Republican Hansen, a former congressman from the second district, ran up large victories over McClure in Cassia and Minidoka counties, as well as taking Gooding, Blaine, Lincoln and Jerome victories, but McClure cut heavily into the Hansen margin by coping first place in "Twin Falls." The nominee outdistanced Hansen by slightly over 700 votes in the outlying Twin Falls precincts, and by more than 150 inside the city.

The two one-man congressional races for the second district nominations produced one surprise, as Willis Ludlow, a Democratic minister from Pocatello, pulled to within 200 votes of his Republican opponent for November, Rep. Orval Hansen, Idaho Falls, in the Blaine County voting.

But in the rest of the eight counties, Hansen outpolled his Democratic challenger by wide margins, drawing 17,986 votes statewide to Ludlow's 3,402 votes. In Twin Falls County, Hansen pulled more than eight times as many votes as Ludlow.

In area races that drew most attention, Twin Falls Sheriff Paul Corder outdistanced all other vote getters with 7,231 votes. His Republican challenger, Ron Goodman, pulled 1,598 in his bid for the party nomination. Corder's margin of victory was better than four to one.

The percentages held true in both the city and county precincts in the sheriff's election. The 21 voting precincts in the county areas gave Corder 3,208 votes to Goodman's 765, while the 27 city precincts gave the incumbent sheriff the same percentage victory, 4,023 to 633 votes.

In Jerome, Republican Eliza Hall won his bid for the Republican nomination for sheriff, after the endorsement of retiring Sheriff Pat Burns.

But Howard Doyle, the Jerome chief of police, ran a strong, isolated write-in campaign polling 417, outdistancing several other candidates.

Boyd Rydahl came in with 329 votes in the 12 Jerome precincts, Jack Parrott took 304,

TF school bond vote slated

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees set Dec. 5 as the tentative date for a bond election to pay for "high priority" school construction.

What would be built and how much it would cost have not been decided.

Trustee Chairman John Wolfe appointed trustees Richard Sayre, Tom Kiley and Ruth Day as an executive committee to develop the detailed proposal to be presented to the public for approval.

CTA Architects representative Ed Peterson suggested an earlier election date.

He said the earlier date was necessary in order to permit occupancy by the fall of 1974.

Wolfe said a November date would be awkward because it would conflict with harvest activities.

The executive committee was assigned the job of determining what construction is "urgently needed" and probable costs.

Choice of a fiscal agent to handle sale of bonds was postponed until the executive committee has determined priorities.

Preliminary reports by Supt. George Staudacher and CTA Architects had urged construction of a new elementary school to replace Washington School as one of the highest priorities for the district.

The CTA Architects' priorities presented in April, in addition to Washington School replacement, included:

— Four additional classrooms at Morningglade and Harrison schools.

— Four additional classrooms at Robert

Stuart Junior High School.

— Purchase of school sites for future use in south and northeast sections of the city.

— Conversion of boiler heating systems.

— Replacement of Happy Day School.

Eventually replacement of Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School and construction of a new elementary school on the south side were suggested.

Under the CTA plan, an initial outlay of $2 million would be required. Later costs could raise the price to $3.5 million by 1985.

Peterson told the trustees that construction costs are rising at about one per cent per month. He said prompt action would minimize the influence of inflation.

Cassia County selects Hansen

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Cassia County bucked the statewide trend in the Republican senatorial primary Tuesday, but went along with the statewide plurality in picking the Democratic nominee.

Final unofficial returns from Cassia County show George Hansen, Pocatello, with 1,319 votes, 10 Rep. James A. McClure, Payette, with 763. Dr. Glen Wegner was third with 292 votes, while former Gov. Robert E. Smylie was fourth with 289 votes.

On the Democratic side of the ballot, Dr. William E. (Bud) Davis, Pocatello, took first place in the county with 304 votes, easily outdistancing his second-place opponent, W. Camas County voters support Sheriff Cox FAIRFIELD — Camas County voters, casting a heavier than usual vote for a primary election, supported their incumbent Sheriff Paul Cox and gave him the Republican nomination for the office.

Cox received 184 votes in the two Camas County precincts, far out-pacing the other two Republican hopefuls, Paul L. Bracy, who received 77 votes, and Calvin C. McNeil, who received 41.

However, Democratic opposition to Cox has cropped up with a total of 23 write-in votes cast for Joe Kelo, a Camas County logging worker. Other write-ins for sheriff on the Democratic ticket were given to the three Republican candidates, with Cox receiving 17 and Bracy and McNeil each receiving 5.

The sheriff's contest was the only race of local interest in Camas County, but in Legislative District 22, which comprises Camas and Elmore counties, there were races on both the Republican and Democratic ballots.

For state representative on the Republican ticket, Camas County farmer Charles Lee Barron outpolled Virgil Kraus, Mountain Home, by a vote of 208 to 119. J. Wilson Steen, Glenns Ferry, unopposed on the Republican ballot for the district 22 state senator nomination, received 215 votes in Camas County.

On the Democratic side of the district 22 ballot in Camas County, Howard K. Fleming received 34 votes while his opponent for the state senate nomination, John D. Kieffer, received 27 votes.

Karl E. Koch received 49 and Alvin W. Joslyn drew 27 votes for district 22 state representative on the Democratic ticket.

For U. S. senator on the Republican side James A. McClure received 115, out-polling George Hansen, 95; Glen Wegner, 45, and Robert E. Smylie, 38.

Orval Hansen received 245 votes for U. S. Representative. On the Democratic ballot, W. Anthony Park received 20 votes; Byron Johnson, 17 votes; William E. (Bud) Davis, 13, and Rose Bowman, 7, for the Democratic senatorial race.

Willis Ludlow received 46 votes in his uncontested bid for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Representative.

In other Camas County voting there were no contested races. Republican voting was: Dwight Osborne, 246, commissioner, first district; William F. Stewart, 180 votes, commissioner, second district; Robert G. Newhouse, 199, prosecuting attorney; Robert Frostenson, 129, precinct committeeman, precinct 11; Gwin Rice, 97, precinct committeeman, precinct 2.

L. W. Baldwin was the local candidate on the Democratic ballot. He received 62 votes to capture his party's nomination for county commissioner, second district.

Archie Bunker for US senator?

RUPERT — Would you believe Archie Bunker as U. S. congressman? Or, Howard Hughes on the regional airport board?

Playful voters added a flurry of nonsense votes in Tuesday's primary election in Minidoka County.

They included writing in the TV comic Archie Bunker as state senator on the Republican ticket as well as Democratic representative in Congress. The regional airport board vote brought a variety of suggestions including Howard Hughes and motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel.

In more sober vein, a number of voters wrote in Republican candidates of the Democratic ticket and placed Democrats on the Republican ticket.

Rupert City Councilman W. E. (Bill) Whitton, a Democratic candidate for state senator, was written in several times in place of his Republican opponent, Sen. John Peavey.

Whitton also was suggested as a member of the airport board and in one precinct was written in for United States senator on the Republican ticket.

Don Chisholm, the incumbent Republican prosecuting attorney, who had decided not to seek re-election, received several votes on both GOP and Democratic tickets as prosecuting attorney.

In one of the more unusual switches Lloyd Knodel, Democratic candidate for the Minidoka County Commission, was written in as state senator on the Republican ticket in one precinct.

A number of the write-ins indicated apparent dissatisfaction with incumbent office holders. Minidoka County Sheriff Theo Johnson, running unopposed on the Republican ticket for re-election, would be replaced by deputy Ray Jarvis or by Idaho Police Officer Gordon Mills if several write-in voters had their way.

Teddy sues feds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., filed a court suit against the administration today, charging President Nixon unconstitutionally pocket vetoed a Kennedy bill in 1970 to help educate family doctors.

Kennedy filed his suit in U. S. District Court in Washington against Arthur F. Sampson, head of the General Services Administration, and Thomas M. Jones, chief of records for the White House.

He asked the court to declare Nixon's veto invalid and to order the two defendants to carry out the bill as though it had been signed into law.

In the case of the Kennedy bill, the senator said, the 10-day period expired on Dec. 25, 1970, when Congress was on a four-day recess for Christmas.

TF student fees hiked

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees unanimously approved a $1.50 hike in high school student fees Monday night.

Under the proposal made by outgoing high school principal John Lawrence, total student fees were raised to $18 per year.

He said the increases would permit the school "just to keep up."

The fees are optional, Lawrence said, but most students pay them.

The student activity ticket would jump from $5.50 to $6 per year, with the extra 50 cents going to pay part of the cost of 80 new drill team uniforms.

Lawrence said the junior and senior drill teams will hold practices during the school day this year for the first time.

He urged the district to move toward eventual purchase of the $30 drill team uniforms which could become school property for reuse several times.

He said the 50 cent per student increase would pay about one-third of the cost of the new uniforms.

On Lawrence's recommendation, the trustees approved raising the cost of the high school annuals by $1, bringing the price to $6.50.

He said the annuals cost $4.47 to produce last year, but students were charged only $5.50. He said the deficit was partially made up by transferring funds from the student newspaper.

Fees for the student newspaper, lockers, class dues and athletic towel fees were not raised.

In other personnel action Monday, the trustees hired four teachers.

Teachers and assignments are: Mrs. Carol May Allred, high school English and psychology; Michael J. Jack Churchill, Robert Stuart social studies; Mrs. Judy Kay Baxter, Washington school, 8th grade, and Velma Marie Kinsey, speech therapist.

The trustees also approved a contract for $170 per month with Nidecon's Fischer to transport hot lunch supplies. Fischer would provide a truck.

No principal

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school trustees tried but failed to decide on a new high school principal.

The position had been vacated by John Lawrence, who assumed a teaching position at the University of Idaho.

Trustee Chairman John Wolfe said late Monday night the board had been unable to choose a successor to Lawrence. Earlier, school officials had said a choice might have been announced Monday night.

Band concert to honor DAV

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Disabled American Veterans will be honored at Thursday's concert by the Twin Falls Municipal Band.

Special intermission entertainment will be presented by the Magichords, directed by Burt Hulsh, Del Slaughter, director of the band, said the concert will start at 8:15 p.m. at the Twin Falls Band Shell.

On the program are "Soldiers on Parade," by Seluca; "Moonlight" from "Moonlight Sonata," Beethoven; "Over There" Fantasie; "Grofe; "Westminster Waltz," Farnon; "Frederic Jacques March," Carroll; "Days of Glory," Cacavas; "Scarlet Ribbons," Segal; "Latinia," Benicicuttia; "Overture from Brigadoon," Loewe; "Gundalcanal March" from "Victory at Sea," Rodgers.

"The Star Spangled Banner" will close the program.

The band will close its 1972 season with a concert on Aug. 17, Slaughter said.

TF elm trees menaced by disease appearance

According to the U of I, the disease can kill a tree in between one week and one month's time with toxins and by stopping the flow of food to the tree. The rate of spread averages less than 20 miles per year, although there occasionally are overland jumps of up to 80 miles, such as the Mountain Home to Twin Falls move.

This is the first time the disease has been found in Twin Falls, Youtz said, although it has been in the Boise River Valley for about two years.

Howard Johnson, city parks director, said he and Youtz have not yet positively identified the exact tree among several in the block which is diseased. They were notified of the location by the university, but the disease is hard to identify.

Johnson said the tree will have to be cut down and the roots removed. The tree should be burned, and all equipment sterilized. The affected tree is on private property, Johnson said, and he does not know if the city or the owner will remove the tree.

Relief slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Philippines will receive $30 million of U.S. disaster relief to aid flood victims.

President Nixon ordered the sending of the aid Tuesday. It will include $24 million worth of rice and flour plus $6 million which will be used for other relief and rehabilitation for flood victims.

White House press aide Gerald T. Warren said.

have been seen in Twin Falls. The disease in the three-fourths dead tree was identified by laboratory culture of a sample taken from the tree.

Experience in Iowa and other eastern and midwestern states indicates that it is not possible to escape an invasion of this disease. Over 10-year period, it was found that a sanitation and chemical protection program cost slightly.

Solar storm races toward Earth today

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A magnetic storm touched off by a massive explosion of gases on the sun's surface passed Mercury and Venus Tuesday en route to Earth.

Space scientists expected the storm to hit later today, blacking out radio communications and disrupting electricity in northern latitudes.

A spokesman for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) reported a "sub-storm" at 1 a.m. (EDT), but said it was not the more disruptive storm expected from Monday's huge solar flare on the sun.

The flare, the latest in a series of unexpected gas explosions on the sun, covered 2.8 billion miles of the sun's surface and was one of the largest ever recorded by man. It covered an area more than 50 times the size of Earth's surface.

"It was an enormous thing," said NOAA spokesman Ralph Segman. "It's not the biggest one ever recorded, but it's a damned big one."

Segman said the "flare-producing region of the sun responsible for the storms was rotating slowly away from Earth. Only Earth-launched satellites will be able to report if the flares continue when the rotation is complete.

Solar flares cause no danger to life on earth because the atmosphere absorbs the waves of energy.

Strategy meets due

BOISE (UPI) — Congressman James A. McClure promised early today to confer as soon as possible with his primary election opponents to plan his strategy for the general election campaign for U. S. Senate.

"I will confer with Governor Smylie, Glen Wegner and George Hansen as soon as possible and ask them to join in the effort to elect Republicans at all levels in November," McClure said.

"This has been a tough primary," he said. "I should like to publicly thank the many people that were active workers in my campaign."

"Without their victory would not have been possible," he said. "I appreciate the sincere offer of support from Bob Smylie which has already been extended. He has shown himself to be first and foremost for the Idaho Republican Party."

Switch said no help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Bob Dole contends Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern still will lose despite his switch of vice presidential running mates.

"The McGovern ticket, though it has been punched once already, is still a one-way ticket to defeat in November," Dole said Tuesday night.

He commented after the Democratic National Committee nominated Sargent Shriver to replace Missouri Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton on the Democratic ticket.

Dole said the McGovern-Shriver slate was still "an elitist ticket remote and aloof from the real sentiments and aspirations of Americans."

November Next

The Professor McNulty of Idaho State did what a lot of people thought he couldn't do.

As a result Dr. William E. (Bud) Davis, president on leave of Idaho State University, Pocatello, finds himself in a contest with James S. McClure in a race for the United States Senate seat being vacated by the retiring Len Jordan.

Dr. Davis stayed ahead of three other candidates in the Democratic Primary and came home with a substantial margin of victory. Mr. McClure, Idaho's First District Congressman, took the Republican Primary in a handy fashion, also against three other candidates. He won out in a rather easy fashion over George Hansen, a former Congressman. McClure's overall state lead was never approached by Hansen.

And so it was with Dr. Davis who stayed ahead of Tony Park, Idaho's attorney general. Park's one big asset—a known name—was overshadowed by the fact he and two other candidates came from Boise. While they split the spoils, Dr. Davis ran strong in Eastern Idaho, well in Magic Valley and better than expected in Northern Idaho. In his campaign he knew his geography and made the most of it. His low-key oratory, sans arm waving, paid off.

The Primary results will surely mean the end of the trail politically for Robert Smylie, former Republican governor and Boise lawyer. And although he ended up a poor third, the Republican Primary is expected to be a stepping stone for newcomer Dr. Glen Wegner. No doubt about it—he will be back in the race two years from now seeking Senator Church's seat. And if Senator McGovern is successful in his Presidential bid and takes Church up with him to a higher post, then there is no doubt but that Dr. Wegner will contest against whoever Governor Andrus appoints to the post if Church resigns.

Dr. Wegner had planned on capturing the "new" youth vote over the state but his vote total—compared to those of the two frontrunners in that race—showed he failed to gather it in.

In Twin Falls county Sheriff Paul Corder won going away from Ronald Goodman, a former deputy who—with help—accused the sheriff of nepotism.

Sheriff Corder's smashing victory proved there are a lot of voters who do not believe all that is spread before them. The sheriff denounced the charges against him and the voters backed him up in no uncertain terms.

A Running Mate

The Law of Averages has been proved again.

George McGovern finally found someone who would run for the office of Vice-President on the Democrat ticket. The one who finally decided to accept the McGovern invitation—and take the leap—was 56-year-old Sargent Shriver.

The Kennedy in-law is not universally loved, just as members of the Kennedy clan are not. The Shriver selection did not bring blanket endorsement from Idaho Democrats. Even the state Democrat chairman, Joe McCarter, Corral, said "I guess Shriver will have to do."

The Kennedy connection brings to mind the race between John Kennedy and Richard Nixon. John Kennedy became President on a squeaker so close that one vote of change in each precinct would have put Nixon in the White House.

But the die has been cast and McGovern has a running mate. And the Kennedys say they are happy.

MR. SPECTATOR

Now It's Over

Now that the primary is over—perhaps we can settle down to other things like figuring how to pay the bills which will be due the first of next month.

The important thing to remember about an election is that all the promises and threats are long gone the day after. Now, after resting two or three weeks, everything will get going again as the race for the general election gets into high gear. So, if you can hang on between now and the first part of November you have the whole thing licked—at least for another two years.

LIFE WITH NATURE

Man and nature have learned to live together in harmonious accord most of the time. Human excesses sometimes disrupt and despoil nature, but even then nature has a way of healing itself once the cause of the irritant has been removed.

Nature's rampages can be more damaging because they usually come on suddenly without much warning and in such force man is nearly helpless to do anything but try to get out of the way.

The floods which struck South Dakota and the eastern seaboard in recent weeks, the tornadoes which habitually visit the Midwest and occasionally spill over into other states, the hurricanes which play their wet and dangerous games all along the East Coast and Gulf states—are some of nature's worst tantrums.

The task of rebuilding after each of these depredations is awesome. Those who see the destruction for the first time swear it can never be repaired. Yet within a relatively short period of time it is not only repaired but in many instances put into better than original condition.

Man cannot conquer nature, but neither can nature overcome man's will to survive. Nature cannot change, but man can and is changing as he learns ever so slowly how to accommodate his world to the greater world which preceded him and surrounds him.

ROBERT ALLEN

If Republicans Win Control

WASHINGTON — If the Republicans win control of the next House of Representatives, the chairman of the powerful and prestigious Judiciary Committee could come from Michigan's 4th Congressional District. Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., on the basis of seniority and outstanding ability, is directly in line to take over this highly influential post. Now the third ranking GOP committeeman, the 4th District legislator will move to the top of the list with the retirement at the close of this Congress of Reps. William McCulloch, R-Ohio, and Richard Poff, R-Va. As senior Republican in the new Congress, Hutchinson would ascend to the Judiciary chairmanship — if the GOP gain control of the House, as they have the best chance of doing in a number of years. Hutchinson, onetime leader of the Michigan State Senate, is serving his fifth term in Congress.

While not well-known nationally, he is one of the most influential members in the House.

Quiet-spoken and ingratiating, he is regarded by Democrats as well as Republicans as a brilliant lawyer and an astute and widely informed parliamentarian and legislator. He is a close and effective adviser of Republican floor leader Gerald Ford, also from Michigan.

One reason for Hutchinson's high standing with colleagues regardless of party is his conscientiousness and thorough attentiveness to work. He has one of the best attendance records in the House, and the reputation of always "doing his homework."

As a consequence of the widely-held, high regard for Hutchinson, when he speaks on a legislative issue he is always closely followed.

A graphic instance of his potent influence was his minority report on an investigation of New Left Justice William O. Douglas by a special Judiciary subcommittee. Hutchinson's scorching findings, published in 1970, are still cited in floor debate.

Only last week, they were referred to, at length by Rep.

Joe Waggoner, D-La., in a blistering denunciation of Douglas.

Rep. Hutchinson's dissenting opinion assailed not only Douglas but the special committee.

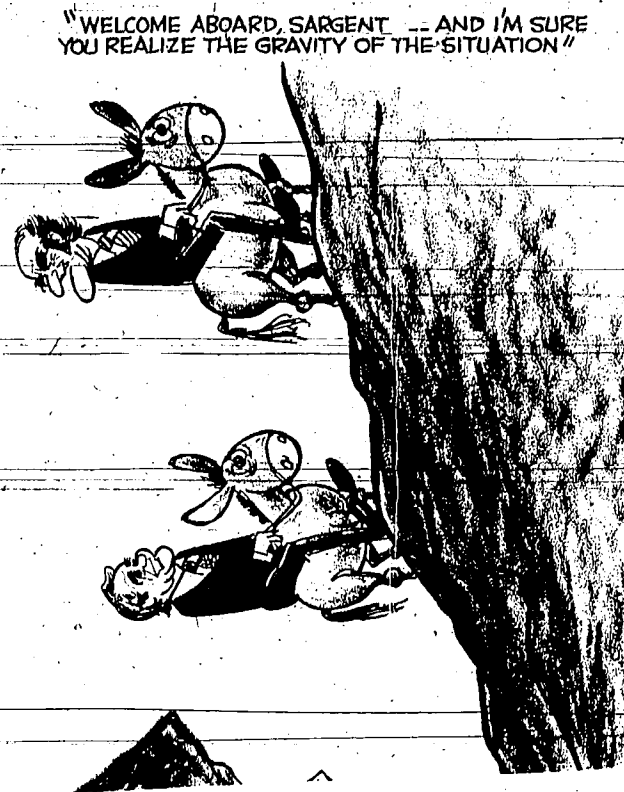

He bluntly charged that the majority findings, by three Democrats, were a "whitewash" and raised more questions about Douglas' conduct than had been answered. In effect, Hutchinson demanded a new probe by a non-partisan panel.

"The inquiry is incomplete," he declared, "and the evidence is not all in. In my opinion, this matter should be pursued further."

That was the burden of Rep. Waggoner's address last week — in which he quoted extensively from Hutchinson's report. Chief among the latter's findings were:

That the seven months' probe held no public hearings, called no witnesses, took no testimony under oath, and did not interrogate Douglas or any other principals. Also that the special subcommittee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., defeated in a recent primary, did not reveal that Douglas reported a taxable income of $83,689 for the period 1960 to 1969 — an average of more than $85,000 a year.

The difference between his salary and the $85,000 average annual total came from moonlighting — heading a foundation with Las Vegas gambling interests, as a board member of a Santa Barbara (Cal.) New Left "cultural" center, book royalties and other writings.

Something Else

California is any other state — and then some. Everything about California is more and very.

California has more organizations of fiscal conservatives than anyplace. And more freeloaders.

And the something-for-nothing appetite of that sucking segment jams California courts with the goofiest conglomeration of mountainous lawsuits over legal molehills.

Let's consider this chronic problem of Americans who want to reap without sowing. And where it's a problem, in most or all states, the civil courts' backlog indicates that nowhere are there more free-riders per square mile than in California.

Peggy McGinnis went to jail in San Bernardino, Calif., because she had collected hundreds of dollars in child-support payments for Tiny Tim — her pet dog.

Jerry Schneider of Los Angeles — also in California — devised a way to trick the telephone company's computer. Thus he requisitioned telephone company equipment. They guesstimate he got and got away with supplies worth a million dollars.

And so many people have been stealing some 3,000 books each year in Mill Valley, Calif., that they've installed an exit turnstile with electronic eyes — in the public library.

Then there's Bimbo the performing elephant. Bimbo's North Hollywood, Calif., owner claimed Bimbo had suffered a whiplash in a car-truck accident and he sued — and won — $4,500.

Or there's Pepsi, the poodle. In San Bernardino — accused of rape. The owner of the girl dog filed a paternity suit against Pepsi, demanding puppy support — alleging that said girl poodle had been impregnated without her consent and against her will.

But the defendant proved to the court that there was a hole in the screen of the victim's trailer home through which any other rapist might have come and gone, and there were other guilty-looking dogs in the neighborhood and the paternity suit against Pepsi was dismissed.

All these peculiarly California confrontations are dated the first half of this year.

Two years ago a San Francisco jury awarded a woman $50,000 because she claimed a cable car accident frightened her out of her senses and made her a nymphomaniac.

A lady sued a Los Angeles pet store for $100,000 claiming the snake they'd sold her as a pet bit her.

A boy entered the wolf enclosure at the San Diego Zoo and got bit — and his mother sued the zoo.

And the city of Sacramento got sued by a supermarket employee who claims he was bitten by a meter maid.

There are hundreds more but there's space just for one.

You know how old and cynical companies are taxed at a lesser rate because their underground reserves are being used up each year — depleted — their assets are worth less, so the tax man allows for that depletion.

Mr. Francis Heisler of Carmel, Calif., in federal court demanded refunds on his personal taxes.

It seems Mrs. Heisler says, that Mr. Heisler, 76, is "depleting."

BRUCE BLOSSAT

In Illinois

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sen. George McGovern's field forces are putting out a huge effort in Illinois, but Republicans are more optimistic about winning it handily this fall than at any time since the Eisenhower days.

At stake, of course, are 26 electoral votes. President Nixon won them in 1968 by a margin of 135,000 popular votes. Illinois has not been on the losing side in a national election since 1916.

McGovern made sure of getting attention for his Illinois endeavors when he chose as his state manager a now-celebrated 26-year-old Nebraska farm boy, Gene Pokorny.

This soft-spoken young man is widely accepted as the organizational mastermind who shaped McGovern's watershed victory in the Wisconsin primary this April. Pokorny bears the "new politics" label. But he really thinks of himself as one who basically just tries to practice the old politics well.

In an interview (one of a dozen or more from his first few days on the job in Chicago), he said:

"It's a very simple process. There's nothing fancy about it."

The "process" he outlines is indeed old-fashioned. It starts with planting store-front offices (perhaps 150 in Illinois). Then follows a heavy voter registration effort, the identifying of McGovern voters, the attempt to win fence-sitters, and the business of getting them to the polls on election day.

Pokorny and his aides have to refine their lists yet, but he thinks he may have 25,000 or more volunteers to do these jobs.

He's going to make an extraordinary effort in downstate areas and in the burgeoning Chicago suburbs, where Democrats usually have not done much organizing. The judgment is that the suburbs particularly may be a swing zone where a good showing is vital to any hopes of victory.

The value of this territory would be underscored if there were any fall-off in the usually large Democratic margin in Mayor Richard Daley's Chicago. Daley has given his good-soldier endorsement of the McGovern ticket. But doubts continue as to how full-hearted his organization's city effort will be, and how effective Pokorny's young stalwarts can be if they have to try to make up for noncooperation by some of Daley's men at the precinct level.

As if the Daley matter were not enough, Pokorny will find Illinois Republicans more hopped up for Nixon than in 1960 or 1968.

The GOP Illinois managers I talked to won't use figures, but they insist they're mounting a pretty sizable organizational force of their own. One top figure said it was the biggest in his memory.

Those people weren't at all complacent. Yet they feel Pokorny and his counterparts in the McGovern setup made their spring primary scores in at least partial vacuum in state after state. They think the young man is going to get something of a shock when he encounters the offsetting political force they say they are generating.

Told of Pokorny's eager plans for the suburbs, one GOP leader said:

"It's not going to work out quite that way."

The leader thought a moment and added:

"We've got a very healthy situation for Nixon in Illinois. Our people are fired up. Their spirit is better and they have greater zeal than ever. They're tired of seeing Nixon get beat over the head."

Illinois is big league. We'll soon see if Pokorny can play there.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Her Hormones

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor passed away, leaving me with two refills of hormone pills. I haven't taken any for several months because I felt bloated and "busty" when I was still taking them for 20 days, and five days off.

My questions: At age 60, how much longer do I need to take them? I had a hysterectomy nine years ago. Could I take the pills for two or three days, as needed? I don't get hot flashes, just a warm feeling after I go to bed. — Mrs. R.S.

There's been a phrase, much banded about, that "once you start taking hormones, you have to take them the rest of your life."

Well, as the old song once expressed it, "it ain't necessarily so." Some women may be more comfortable to continue hormones as long as they live. Others may be perfectly happy without any hormones. After all, before hormones were discovered, women managed to get along without them.

And still other women may find that a reduced amount of hormones may be all they need to remain comfortable.

Stop a minute and think: what's the purpose of hormones? Well, some women are quite uncomfortable from hot flashes and other symptoms after menopause, or after "surgical menopause" if the ovaries have had to be removed. Taking hormones in pill form (or sometimes by injection) can make up for the hormones the ovaries are no longer supplying.

The body, however, often manages to compensate for this, in which case there's no real purpose in continuing to take hormones, is there? The question boils down to this: are you getting along all right without them?

Your own suggestion sounds valid enough — taking the pills for a few days if symptoms occur. But since for several months you have been getting along without taking the pills at all, it wouldn't astonish me if you found that you needed very little or even none.

At risk of being accused — again — of answering a question by saying, "See your doctor," I also suggest that it wouldn't be too bad an idea for you to get a new doctor, now that your old one has died, and have him check you over and advise whether you do or don't need hormones, or how much.

One of the chief reasons for continuing female hormones is to combat the bone changes of osteoporosis which can occur in some women well after the menopause.

Youth vote leaves mark

BOISE (UPI)—The much-anticipated Idaho "youth vote" subtly left its mark at the polls Tuesday and appeared to be responsible for a record turnout of state wide voters.

Early today, with 840 of Idaho's 851 precincts reporting, a record 193,332 voters had cast their ballots in the state's primary election on a day that saw afternoon temperatures hover near the 100-degree mark.

According to several observers at mid-day Tuesday, voting was reported as "moderate" to "normal" in most polling areas, and skeptics began to scoff at the much-heralded group of 70,000 newly enfranchised 18, 19 and 20-year-olds who were expected to show up in droves.

"By all indications earlier in the day, we really didn't think the young people would make much difference," said deputy secretary of State Dryden Hiller. "When I tabulated the totals after 840 precincts were in, I was amazed—they must have turned out after all."

In the 1970 Idaho primary, a lot of 146,668 voters turned out at the polls in what was then considered "a normal sampling," according to Hiller. The largest state turnout ever occurred in the 1968 gubernatorial election when 157,718 Idahoans cast ballots.

Hiller said the sum total of votes culled from the last-11 precincts would amount to "no more than 1,000; mostly likely about 500, but the records have been broken by more than 30,000."

Asked if any one county in the state was responsible for the record number of Idaho pollsters, he said, "I doubt it. This new wealth of voters is pretty much spread around the state," and added, "most counties showed a marked increase in their voters over 1970."

The deputy secretary of state said Idaho has a "more respectable" voting record in general elections than in primaries, and pointed out that in 1968 and 1970, general state voters ranked second in the nation in per capita turnout.

Senate hopefuls concede

BOISE (UPI)—With just over two-thirds of the precincts reporting in the primary election, four U.S. Senate hopefuls bowed out in favor of the apparent leaders.

Republicans Robert E. Smylie and Glen Wegner conceded to Congressman James A. McClure. Democrats Byron Johnson and Rose Bowman concluded they had lost out to William E. Davis.

In conceding to McClure, Smylie said: "It is apparent from the accruing results that congressman McClure will be nominated for the senate. I have sent my congratulations to him and will support him enthusiastically in the election this November."

"I am confident he will be elected to the Senate, and with President Nixon, will carry the Republican ticket to victory in the fall," Smylie said.

Johnson, a Boise attorney, said, "Unless some ballots have been secreted somewhere, it's pretty obvious Mr. Davis will be the party nominee."

"I intend to give him the best of my knowledge and influence to see him to victory over the Republicans," he added.

Republican Wegner, a lawyer and medical doctor from Kendrick, said, "Idaho Republicans, especially congressman McClure, can count on one thing—I'm not going anywhere. I'll be in the mainstream of Republican politics through the November elect," he said.

Mrs. Bowman, 35, a women's liberation advocate, said "I'm ready to devote full time to the party, and my goal is to make the Republicans pant in November," she said.

Voters elect favorites

By United Press International
Voters in Michigan, Georgia, and Missouri primaries generally went along with favorites Tuesday, producing few clues to popular sentiment which could affect the national elections in November.

In Missouri where pundits hoped to gauge the impact of Sen. Thomas Eagleton's resignation from the Democratic national ticket, there was nothing conclusive in the results.

Dexter Davis, whose brother True Davis was the source of the story, later repudiated, that alleged Eagleton had a record of drunken driving, ran fourth in the Democratic primary for nomination to Congress.

However, Davis never was considered a front runner in the race and the fourth-place finish gave little indication whether his popularity had waned because of his brother's role in the Eagleton matter.

State auditor Christopher Bond won the Missouri Republican gubernatorial nomination and will face Edward L. Dowd, a former FBI agent who won the Democratic nomination.

Georgia voters picked incumbent Sen. David Gambrell and state Rep. Sam Nunn from a crowded field to meet in a Democratic runoff election for U.S. senator.

Gambrell was appointed last year by Gov. Jimmy Carter to fill the term of the late Sen. Richard Russell. On the Republican side, Rep. Fletcher Thompson was an easy winner.

J.B. Stoner, whose racist radio advertisements received national attention, ended in a virtual fourth place tie with black civil rights activist Hosea Williams. Both men had just under five per cent of the vote.

In Michigan, incumbent Republican congressman Charles Griffin, the minority whip, and Democratic Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, were unopposed for their parties' nominations for U.S. Senate.

In a key race in a Detroit suburb where busing was an important issue incumbent Rep. William Broomfield won against Jack MacDonald in the Republican primary. Both ran strong anti-busing campaigns.

In the only statewide race, Apple grower Steve Symms defeated state Sen. Wayne Kidwell for the GOP nomination to Congress.

Manager pleased

BOISE (UPI)—Steve Symms' campaign manager Bob Smith said he was pleased with the results in Tuesday's primary election.

"We started out way behind. What this really reflects is that the people of Idaho want a new direction in our government," Smith said.

He said the people voted for free enterprise and "against government overkill."

Offensive quickens throughout Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese rangers backed by U.S. jets counterattacked a Communist guerrilla battalion today, only 17 miles east of Saigon in the closest ground fighting in the capital in the current North Vietnamese offensive.

After a three-month lull, that offensive today was quickening throughout Vietnam and in neighboring Cambodia.

Results of today's clash on a road east of Long Thanh leading from Saigon to the coast were not immediately known, but military sources told UPI reporter Ted Kurrus that in two days of fighting the South Vietnamese had suffered 42 killed and 80 wounded, with 60 men missing.

Casualties to one militia unit were officially described as "heavy" or serious enough to render the unit ineffective as a fighting force.

The battles started Monday in rubber-growing country and three battalions of rangers were called in Tuesday night to help fight off the guerrillas who have cut off at least one hamlet — Binh Son — from Saigon.

An unconfirmed report said the guerrillas had two or three tanks. If that were true, it would be the closest yet Communist tanks have been to Saigon. The previous closest tank sighting was 60 miles north of the capital last May.

Elsewhere in the quickened tempo of fighting, allied forces battled more than 300 Communist troops on the western edge of the Cambodian border town of Kompong Trabek following a pre-dawn North Vietnamese artillery and ground assault, the Cambodian command reported.

The command said allied troops at the town on Highway 1, the main Saigon-Phnom Penh link, appeared to be surrounded. Kompong Trabek is 47 miles southeast of Phnom Penh and 76 miles northwest of Saigon.

UPI correspondent Alan Dawson, reporting from the northern sector of South Vietnam, said government marines attempting to recapture Quang Tri City from Communist troops who have held it since May 1 were encountering a storm of shellfire from North Vietnamese 130mm guns. The Communists in turn were under constant bombardment from allied aircraft, artillery and U.S. naval gunships.

In the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, 108 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in the area around Quang Tri and near the government campaign headquarters at Hue, 35 miles to the south, according to official figures. One Communist tank and one 130mm gun were reported destroyed.

The South Vietnamese lost 41 men, killed and 98 wounded, most of them marines. Dawson reported that Hue, South Vietnam's third largest city, was reinforced today in the expectation that it is the ultimate target of the North Vietnamese offensive.

Militiamen were setting up defensive positions within Hue itself, on rooftops and at crossroads, to help fight off the expected attack. It was foreshadowed earlier this week when Communist troops captured seven hamlets in a probing sweep 18 miles south of Hue. They later abandoned them.

Full agreement

SEOUL (UPI) — Red Cross officials of South and North Korea today reached full agreement on all pending issues and the two projected main South-North Red Cross talks on reunifying separated families are expected soon.

The South Korean Red Cross said the agreement was reached at a working-level meeting of Red Cross officials held at the truce village of Panmunjom. The meeting lasted nearly eight hours, it said.

"Efforts to settle outstanding procedural matters have been satisfactorily concluded, and the agreement will now be referred to a preliminary South-North Red Cross meeting for approval," the announcement said. "The main talks will now be held soon."

Catholic youths bombard post

BELFAST (UPI) — Roman Catholics banged trashcan lids, plunging the areas into darkness and burned buses early today to mark the first anniversary of internment without trial in Northern Ireland.

The army said about 100 youths hijacked and burned two buses in "fierce rioting" outside an army post in the Catholic Lower Falls Rd. area of Belfast.

An army spokesman said the youths bombarded the post with rocks and bombs packed with explosives and nails.

Joseph Connolly, a 15-year-old Roman Catholic, Tuesday became the 501st person to die in three years of violence in Northern Ireland. He was injured in bomb explosions in the County Londonderry village of Claudy Aug. 1 in which eight others were killed.

In the Catholic areas of Belfast families banged trashcan lids onto the pavement in front of their homes for 15 minutes starting at 4 a.m., the hour when British troops swept into the districts a year ago to begin rounding up suspected members of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

"It was deafening," reported UPI newsmen Frank Johnston in the Catholic Andersonstown area. "They just stood there with their feet wedged into the handles of the lids tramping them onto the sidewalk."

The demonstration came despite the release Tuesday of 47 internees.

Residents defused street lighting in the districts shortly before the demonstration.

Whitelaw denounced as "appalling" a similar attack by children Monday in Armagh, 40 miles southwest of Belfast, in which a soldier was killed.

Antiques set for TF fair

Fair Entries

ANTIQUES like these will be but a few of the entries in the antique department of the Twin Falls County Fair Sept. 5 through 9. Small stoves are much in demand for decorator accents in homes. This small french stove was made to heat a bedroom.

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News writer

FILER — The antique department of the Twin Falls County Fair increases each year.

This year 24 new classes were added to the department making a total of 404, according to Mrs. Milton Hanson and Mrs. Marjorie Davis Filer, superintendents.

Nearly every division has new additions and each division also has a class for most unusual items of its kind, the superintendents said.

Entry and pick-up times for antiques this year have been changed in the hopes of alleviating the long standing lines. Entries this year may be made from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sept. 2 and Sept. 3 and from 8 a.m. to noon on Sept. 4.

Judging will begin Sept. 5. There will be no releases on Sunday this year to allow the superintendents time to sort each exhibitor's entries and have them ready for them to take out. These will be released from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. Sept. 11.

The superintendents said they are asking the cooperation of the public in helping to properly show and take care of the many heirlooms and collectors' items which appear at the fair.

Whenever possible a history should accompany each exhibit, said Mrs. Hanson. Exhibits will be judged according to age and condition and of original appearance and form. Dishes should be washed and other articles cleaned. Only listed entries will be accepted. Doors will be closed while judging is being done in this department.

All exhibitors are prohibited from entering inside the railing or from helping themselves in removing their exhibits at the close of the fair. No exhibitor will be allowed to pick up other exhibitors' exhibits without written authorization.

First and second place ribbons and premium money will be awarded winners in each division.

The many divisions include many kinds of clocks, photo books, music boxes and musical instruments. Another division includes Bibles and other books. Baby shoes and clothes as well as adult clothing, quilts and shawls are but a few of the items in the clothing and cloth division.

Collectors' items are limited to 10 articles of one kind in a display. Collectors' items are not antiques but are articles no longer being made and therefore collectible, such as depression glass, carnival glass, Nippon china, Noritake china and others.

Largest division of the department is for porcelain, china and earthenware and includes many kinds and patterns of china. The furniture division includes chairs, tables, phonographs, trunks and others.

There is a large section for clear glass articles as well as one for colored glass and another for pattern glass. Jewelry, kitchen articles, metal articles, tack and toys and games also make up several divisions.

MR. AND MRS. GARY BAXTER

Robyn Harper, Baxter say vows

TWIN FALLS — Robyn Harper became the bride of Gary Baxter in an Aug. 4 ceremony at the YM-YWCA Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Peterson, Heyburn. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Irma Baxter, Filer. Rev. Herbert Morris officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of ecru crystalline enhanced with light pink ribbon trim. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Mrs. Glade Nell, Mantl, Utah, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Gene Baxter, Twin Falls, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Debbie and Tammie Baxter, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Baxter, were tapers.

Helpful hints given for home canners

RUPERT — As the canning season swings into full production, the Minidoka County agent's office receives lots of questions.

According to Charlene Wicks, home agent, a few hints and answers may be helpful to the home canner.

Why do home canned tomatoes spoil?

The high pH (low acid content) of some varieties of tomatoes is undoubtedly the cause. Most of the trouble is because the recommended water-bath method is not used, according to Miss Wicks. Some "experts" recommend adding 1 teaspoon lemon juice per quart to non-acid (pink, beefsteak) tomatoes.

Pickle safety is as long as acid content is high and remains high during storage. micro-organisms in pickled foods are not potentially dangerous. But, if these spoilage micro-organisms survive inadequate processing, they may grow inside the jar of food thus reducing the acid content. Botulism spores, if present, could start to grow and produce their deadly toxin.

Home canned vegetables have usually been responsible for most cases of botulism. However, if yeasts or molds remain in canned fruit they may use the oxygen and thus destroy the acid of the fruit. This creates a condition which is favorable for the botulism microbe to grow.

Is it safe to process foods in the oven?

No, oven canning is dangerous. Jars may explode, the temperature of the food in jars during oven processing does not get high enough to insure destruction of spoilage bacteria in vegetables.

Why is open kettle canning not recommended for fruits and vegetables?

In open kettle canning, food is cooked in an ordinary kettle, then packed into hot jars and sealed without processing. For vegetables, the temperatures obtained in open kettle canning are not high enough to destroy all the spoilage organisms that may be in the food. Spoilage bacteria may get in when the food is transferred from kettle to jar.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago the day lady who came to do my laundry once a week told me she had to quit working. I tried to find a replacement for her, but no luck.

Out of the blue, the laundress of one of my friends phoned to tell me she had a free day and would love to work for me. I grabbed her!

Yesterday I received a call from this friend whose laundress is now working for me. She said she was disappointed to learn that I had hired "her" maid without first consulting her. She said had I consulted her she would not let me have her because it is a bad policy for friends to share a maid. (She uses this maid twice a week.)

I cannot understand my friend's attitude. Did I commit a crime by hiring this woman? She called me. I didn't call her.

Keep maid — let friend go

Should I now let the maid go to satisfy my friend? And what kind of a "friend" would rather have her maid work for a stranger than for me?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: She doesn't "own" the maid, neither has she a voice in where the maid shall or shall not work. If you must make a choice, keep the maid and let the friend go.

DEAR ABBY: One night not long ago I picked up the telephone to make a call, and my younger brother (I'll call him Irving) was talking to a friend. The first thing I heard him say was, "Guess what I stole today!"

I was stunned and heard a little more which I don't want to repeat. I quickly hung up. I am really stuck now. I'm afraid to tell our parents because they are the type who hit first and ask questions later. But I don't want my little brother, who is only 11 to start out on a life of crime. Help me, Abby.

IRVING'S SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Tell Irving what you heard accidentally. Then urge him to return whatever he has stolen to its rightful owner. Explain that shoplifting is a crime, punishable by law.

DEAR ABBY: Some people I know very well called up the relatives of a deceased person to whom some gifts were given and asked for their gifts back.

Those presents were sent out at Christmastime and the person died three months later. Should the presents be returned or not?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO RAT PINK" IN ALBANY, N. Y.: If you don't want to give the doctor a list of those with whom you have been intimate, at least be big enough to promptly inform each one personally. SEPT. TRAVEL WARDROBE

By Mary Sue Miller

A lovely writer: I plan to visit Munich for the Summer Olympics, from August 28 to September 10. What kind of clothes will I need?

The Answer: While the event is known as the "Summer Olympics," the timing is really early autumn. A color-coordinated wardrobe of knits in varying weights would be ideal — suitable, comfortable and easy care. The following items are indispensable and couched in terms of fall fashions:

- All-weather coat in brown wool knit with dolman sleeves and a large collar, rather loose.
- Pantsuit of light weight, double-breasted, longish, wrapped and wool blend — camel color sashed jacket.
- Flared, tweedy knit skirt in a rusty shade to wear with pantsuit jacket.
- Two pull-on sweaters — one rust wool, one beige/silky polyester.
- All-purpose Ban-Lon print dress, chemise shape, fall colors like orange red, gold and gray.
- Sheer wool jersey late day dress — winter white or bright green.
- Accessories: Large brown travel handbag and leather walking shoes; P.M. pumps and envelope purse; folding hat for travel and damp days.

You may change the color scheme to suit your tastes. You may add to the collection — a plaid jumper and a long evening skirt, for instance. As it stands, you've got a head start on a travel wardrobe, and the clothes you'll need when you get back home.

Up to now United States world bridge champions have been largely restricted to New York, Texas, Pennsylvania, California, Illinois and Michigan.

With this year's victory in the mixed by the team of James Jacoby, Bobby Goldman, Bobby and Betsy Wolff, Nancy Alpaugh and Heidi Noland — two ladies from Louisiana — have joined our world champion group.

Nancy Alpaugh's three-heart bid was typical of her aggressive, bidding style. Her refusal to just four hearts was sufficient in view of her previous action.

Bobby Goldman is aggressive too and could be depended on to take further action — with any oxcuse. He went to five clubs. From then on the bidding was ceeded in a series of cue bids until Nancy finally jumped to seven hearts.

Nancy drew trumps with three leads and went after spades. She cashed the king and ace and continued with dummy's jack. East ducked and after long study Nancy ruffed. This play was correct mathematically, but if she had been looking at all the cards she would have let the jack ride.

When West showed out, the grand slam contract became a rather poor one, but Nancy still had a chance. She led a club and finessed dummy's 10. This represented only a 25 per cent chance, but any chance is better than none, and the 25 per cent chance materialized for her.

'Marked differences' noted

CHICAGO (UPI) — A study conducted by four Pennsylvania medical researchers shows children from poor families are much more likely to be fat than wealthy youths.

The study, published in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, says "marked differences" between upper and lower class children are apparent by the age of six. The findings are shown to be especially true for girls.

The study was undertaken by Doctors Albert Stunkard, Eugene d'Aquili, Sonja Fox and Ross D. Fillion of the department of psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania.

From their investigations of 3,300 New York, Philadelphia, and Wilmington, Del., children, the researchers concluded that "socioeconomic status and related social factors have more to do with determining whether a person will be obese than does individual psychopathology."

British dock strike halt sought

LONDON (UPI)—The government appealed today to Britain's 42,000 longshoremen to halt their 13-day-old strike in order to avert hunger on the nation's off-shore islands and save farm livestock from wholesale slaughter.

The appeal followed battles Tuesday between police and hundreds of picketing dockers in the port of Southampton in northeastern England. The fighting erupted when police tried to prevent dockers from blockading a wharf worked by nonunion labor.

Police said at least 35 policemen were injured, five seriously, and 12 dockers were arrested during the clash. During the fighting the dockers felled a telephone pole in an abortive attempt to block the wharf entrance to trucks.

DA's criticize justice probe

NEW YORK (UPI)—All five of the city's district attorneys Tuesday criticized the Knapp Commission's proposal for a special prosecutor to investigate all aspects of the city's criminal justice system.

The district attorneys said they did not hesitate to press charges against police accused of corruption.

Manhattan District Attorney Frank Hogan besides denouncing the call for a special prosecutor, blasted the commission for releasing its report on police corruption during the murder trial of Patrolman William Phillips, the chief witness during the commission's hearings on corruption.

Hogan, implying that the timing of the release was part of an effort to protect Phillips, said both he and Mayor John V. Lindsay had asked Knapp to think of prosecuting your partner.

And all the district attorneys, some responding angrily, disputed the contention put forward Monday by Commission chairman Whitman Knapp that the district attorneys cannot be relied on to investigate police thoroughly.

Knapp said the district attorneys' offices work closely with the police department and "it's absolutely impossible to think of prosecuting your partner."

McGovern disclaims 'radical' charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern twice Tuesday defended himself against charges of being a radical.

Beach, McGovern told a union convention that his efforts to close tax loopholes favoring giant corporations had earned him the title of radical from "Mr. Nixon and his cohorts."

McGovern departed from his text to make the remark to the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.

With his new running mate, Shriver, McGovern scheduled meetings today with Senate and House Democrats, governors, women and Spanish-Americans.

McGovern leaves Thursday for a two-day swing into New England.

Hall 'happiest guy in world'

JEROME — Elza Hall, top vote-getter in the nine-way race for Jerome sheriff, said Tuesday he was "about the happiest guy in the world tonight."

Hall, receiving 645 votes, outdistanced five other Republicans whose names appeared on the ballot, while write-in Republican Howard DuBois was second with 417 votes.

Independent candidate Paul Whaley received 288 votes on the Republican ballot and 29 on the Democratic ballot. Democratic nominee Foley Asher received 253 votes.

Hall, a former Jerome City Police officer, said he plans to take some time off to rest and will announce his platform for the November election in a couple of days.

Hall said if elected in November, he plans to make some changes in operation of the sheriff's department.

DuBois, a late-comer in the election running on a write-in campaign based on the belief that the Jerome Sheriff's Department and the Jerome City Police Department could be combined, doing away with the post of police chief which he now holds, said Tuesday night he is not certain at this time if he will initiate a write-in campaign for the November election.

He said he will announce his decision next Tuesday afternoon.

"I want to talk with the people who urged me to instigate this proposal of combining the police and sheriff's departments," he said.

"My main purpose in running in the primary was to see how people would accept my proposal," he said. DuBois admitted he was surprised at the support he received and still feels his "plan will work."

In unofficial returns, a total of 2,874 votes were cast in the sheriff's race, all but 301 of them on the Republican side.

Hansen, Park carry Lincoln

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — Democrat W. Anthony (Tony) Park and Republican George Hansen carried Lincoln County in their race for the U. S. senatorial nomination Tuesday.

In the only county race on the ticket, Dr. R. G. Neher won the nomination for coroner on the Republican ticket over William A. Turska. Dr. Neher received 725 votes — high on the ballot for the day — and Turska polled 51.

Park led the Democratic senatorial ticket with 83 votes, while William E. (Bud) Davis received 52, Byron Johnson 30 and Rose Bowman 14. On the GOP ballot, Hansen polled 351 votes, Rep. James A. McClure 189, Glen Wegner 157 and Robert E. Smylie 105.

In the Second Congressional District, incumbent Rep. Orval Hansen, Republican, received 700 votes and Democrat Willis Ludlow drew 139. Both were unopposed.

Other county and state legislative candidates on both tickets were without opposition.

County Clerk Louella Kinsey estimated 973 votes were cast in the county Tuesday, about 80 more than the 891 cast in 1970. She attributed the increase to the youth vote — by 10 to 21 year olds — and interest in the county recreation district proposal.

In district 21, Sen. John T. Peavey received 177 votes, Rep. E. V. McLean 163 and Rep. Steve Antone 76 on the Republican ticket. All are incumbents. Democrat William F. (Bill) Whitton received 36 votes in his

In district 23 Rep. Earl Greenawalt received 264 and Rep. Vernon F. Ravenscroft polled 485 on the Republican ticket. Democrat Anna Louise Robison received 96 and her party's nomination in that district for the house. In the district, Sen. Don Frederickse, Democrat, was nominated with 115 votes and Republican hopeful James A. Yost received 453.

Results in other county races: Commissioner, first district, Ward A. Mills, Republican, 651; William (Bill) Kerner, 158.

Commissioner, second district, C. F. Chaffield, Republican, 613.

Sheriff, Billy J. (Bill) Anderson, Republican, 724.

Prosecuting attorney, Howard E. Adkins, Democrat, 139.

On the state judicial ballot, Justice Joseph McFadden received 746 votes and Justice Henry F. McQuade drew 455.

In the regional airport board election of trustees, Robert F. Fields led the ticket in Legislative District 23 with 289 votes. Lawrence V. Reubel received 186 and Jack N. Adams received 176. In district 21, George Falkner received 183 votes.

In precinct committee elections, Republican Darwin Mills received 62 votes; Democrats Arlyne Kialing had 8; Herb Love, 40; Waldo Jones 26, and Begie Hatmaker, 31.

The pool is to be constructed with donated money and matching funds from non-tax sources.

Estimated cost of constructing the pool is about $70,000.

The levy would provide $3,250 annually, about half of the money required to operate the pool. The rest would come from fees charged patrons.

Hall wins Jerome sheriff's race

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News writer

JEROME — One of the hottest primary election contests in Jerome County history was settled Tuesday night.

Former Jerome City Police officer Elza Hall captured his party's nomination for Jerome County sheriff.

Hall was one of six Republican candidates on the ballot, while a seventh Republican, Chief of Police Howard DuBois, a late-comer in the race, came in second on the Republican side.

The two men were among nine seeking the sheriff's post being vacated by the retiring James B. (Pat) Burns.

The Republican vote for the sheriff's post was Hall, 645; DuBois, 417; Boyd Rydall, 329; Jack Parrott, 304; Dennis Robinson, 253; James R. Laswell, 186; Irving Altman, 151.

Paul Whaley, running as an independent candidate, received 288 votes on the Republican ballot and 29 on the Democratic ticket.

Foley Asher, Democratic candidate for sheriff, received 253 votes. DuBois received 15 Democratic write-in vote and Hall received four Democratic write-ins.

In another Jerome County contest on the Republican ballot, Milford Jones received 1,490 votes to unseat incumbent Cleo C. Ambrose for the Republican nomination for county commissioner, first district.

Corder top vote-getter in TF primary election

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County voters turned out in record numbers Tuesday and gave Sheriff Paul Corder a landslide primary victory over Republican challenger Ron Goodman.

Corder's 7,231 votes in the primary made him the top vote getter in the county. Goodman polled 1,598.

Corder is thus assured of reelection to his second full term in office. He had been appointed sheriff in 1967 to fill an unexpired term. No Democrat filed for the primary Tuesday.

In the hotly contested two-party races for the U. S. senatorial nomination, Rep. James A. McClure, a Payette Republican, and William E. (Bud) Davis, a Democrat from Pocatello, were top vote getters.

McClure took 3,693 votes in the county's 48 precincts, with former Rep. George Hansen, Pocatello, second, with 2,832; Glen Wegner, a doctor, lawyer and former White House staffer was third with 2,068 votes, and former three-term Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie was a distant fourth with 1,160 votes.

Davis, president of Idaho State University on leave, topped three other Democrats with 681 votes, with Atty. Gen. W. Anthony (Tony) Park second with 433; Boise attorney Byron Johnson 306, and women's liberationist Rose-Marie Bowman, Boise, fourth with 229 votes.

Second District Rep. Orval Hansen, a two-term incumbent from Idaho Falls, polled 6,248 votes with no opposition in the primary balloting. His November Democratic opponent, Willis Ludlow, a Pocatello minister, polled 786 votes.

Ludlow had said during his campaign for the primary race he hoped to poll three quarters the vote Hansen did in the primary.

In the uncontested races for the county's two legislative districts, Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, 25th district, outdistanced all other primary candidates with 3,337 votes.

Anthony Park fought a strong battle with Davis topping Park by 345 to 337.

Byron Johnson was third on the Democrat ticket with 112 and distaff challenger Rose Bowman drew 85 votes.

Rep. Orval Hansen showed great strength in Mindoka County for Second District Congressman, tallying 2,027 votes against 309 for his November challenger, Democrat Willis Ludlow.

All other races were strongly Republican.

Incumbent State Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, walked away from his challenger, Rupert City Councilman W. F.

PAUL CORDER
... runs first

For representatives in the 25th district, Republican incumbents, Ray Lincoln, Twin Falls, came in with 3,418 votes, while Republican newcomer Ralph Olmstead Twin Falls, polled 3,295 in his first time on the ballot. Olmstead is running for the seat vacated by Rep. Jack D. Claborn, who retired after nine terms in the house.

In the county's western legislative district, 24, San John M. Barker, R-Buhl, polled 1,973 votes, while his Democratic opponent in November, Eugene R. Strickland Buhl, tallied 446.

In the two uncontested Republican primary contests for the district's two state representative seats, Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, polled 2,141, while Rep. William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, the House speaker, came in with 2,137 votes.

In the other county races, all uncontested except for the two-man race for the Republican nomination for sheriff, County Commissioner William Chancy garnered 5,575 votes for nomination as a Republican from the county's second district, but he was outpolled by Merl Leonard, who took in 5,827 votes in the county's second district.

Robert Geer, a Twin Falls Democrat, gained 983 votes in his uncontested race for the Democratic nomination to oppose Chancy in the November general elections.

Geer's total was the largest Twin Falls voters gave to any Democrat in the county.

In the two uncontested races for party nominations for Twin Falls Pros. Atty. Robert Galley, a Republican, took 5,838 votes to gain the nomination, while his November opponent, Golden R. Bennett, a Twin Falls attorney, took 922.

Galley is the assistant county prosecutor. Leon Smith, the prosecutor for the past two years, is not seeking re-election.

In the other uncontested races, Coroner Clyde Edwards took 6,003 votes in an uncontested run at the Republican nomination for another term. There was no Democrat listed on the ballot.

Ronald Taylor took 5,648 votes in the uncontested race for the Republican nomination for county assessor. He, like Edwards, will face no opponent in the fall.

But the big winner in the primary was Corder. With 7,231 votes, he easily outdistanced all candidates on both party ballots, including each of the eight senatorial candidates and the popular two-term Congressman Hansen.

The primary sheriff campaign had been hotly contested, with Goodman and his supporters charging the incumbent sheriff with poor administration, lack of security at the jailhouse and alleged improper handling of prisoner meals.

Corder refused to counter attack, relying instead on his five year record in office and a newspaper advertisement campaign.

TF vote 'smooth'

TWIN FALLS — Shortly before 8 p.m. Tuesday, Twin Falls County Clerk Harold Lancaster opened the voting booths containing absentee ballot returns and the race was on.

As Lancaster read the returns off the machines — one for the 24th legislative district and the other for the 25th, a county secretary wrote the totals on a tally sheet.

At two minutes after 8, Lancaster walked down the courthouse steps to close the voting machines for the precincts voting in the lobby. It was all done with a minimum of confusion.

As the evening wore on and the outlying districts reported their totals, two sets of counters were at work in opposite corners of the clerk's inner office.

Two women talked votes for the 27 precincts in the city proper while two other workers added the totals for the other 21 outlying precincts. When the final returns came in, from the Allendale precinct, the clerk was ready to close the office.

Considering the record turnout, Lancaster said, it all went remarkably smoothly.

Died in U.S.A.

Anthony Fokker, Dutch airman, pioneer aircraft designer and manufacturer, whose planes were used extensively by the German air force in World War I, died a naturalized American citizen in New York.

This seal is not an advertising gimmick.

(Neither is the chicken behind it.)

Unless you live just down the road from a poultry farm, the fresh chicken you buy has quite possibly lost the very peak of its country-fresh flavor along the way to your shopping basket.

It's not the chicken's fault. And it's not your fault. It's Nature.

And, since you've probably never tasted true, country-fresh chicken in the first place, there's no reason for you to be dissatisfied.

You just haven't had a basis for comparison. Until today.

In selected fine food stores and supermarkets, you can now buy Grade "A" chickens and chicken parts that have been Deep Chilled—an exciting new process that locks in the freshest, most succulent flavor components of the natural chicken... without ever freezing it! Here's what happens:

Immediately upon processing, the chickens are chilled to about 38 degrees—which is just cold enough to "lock in" their true country flavor and freshness, without freezing the chicken itself. (Frozen poultry, as you know, is chilled to well below zero before shipping—an entirely different process from ours.)

In your supermarket, Tyson's Deep Chill Country-Fresh Chicken will feel a bit firmer to your touch. That's because your store's display case is also chilled to the "magical" 38 degrees that keeps all the fresh flavor and natural moisture in the chicken. Without freezing it.

So you can prepare it your usual way, refrigerate it, or freeze it for future use (without re-wrapping). We hope you prepare your first Tyson's Deep Chill chicken the very first day you buy it. And the simplest way possible—no fancy seasonings, no fancy gravy. This ultimate feast!

Because the sooner you taste the difference, the sooner you'll be back for more.

Giants sweep 2 from Padres

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ed Goodson hit a three-run homer and Ken Henderson drove in two runs and scored two with a single, two doubles and a homer Tuesday night to give the San Francisco Giants a 7-3 victory over the San Diego Padres after Frank Reberger pitched and batted the Giants to a 15-1 triumph in the opener.

Cubs outlast Montreal 6-5

CHICAGO (UPI)—Jim Hickman and Billy Williams hit two-run homers to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 6-5 victory over the Montreal Expos Tuesday, but Cubs ace Ferguson Jenkins was forced out of the game with arm problems. Jenkins, the National League's Cy Young award winner last year and a 20-game winner five seasons in a row, left the game in the seventh inning complaining of tenderness in the bicep of his pitching arm.

Braves win for new manager

ATLANTA (UPI)—Homo runs by catcher Earl Williams and Dusty Baker helped Atlanta to an 8-4 victory over the Houston Astros, the Braves' first win under new manager Eddie Mathews. Baker hit his homer with one aboard in a wild first inning in which Atlanta scored five runs. Williams hit a homer with no one aboard in the second.

TF plays IF in state Legion meet

The Twin Falls American Legion team will meet Idaho Falls at 1 p.m. Thursday in the opening round of the state tournament in Lewiston.

Coach Bob Banfield's charges are bracketed with Coeur d'Alene, the Boise Gems and Idaho Falls while Moscow, Pocatello, Lewiston and Payette are in the bottom bracket.

Twin Falls left Wednesday morning for the event which has been won for the past 12 successive years by Lewiston — and the defending champions are favored again.

"It will be tough to win," said Coach Banfield. "Particularly since we have some injuries that put some boys on the questionable list."

Enumerating, Coach Banfield said Mike Anderson still is troubled by back problems that struck him in last week's district. This whittles down the pitching depth. Mike Fries hasn't played for two weeks, trying to get over a muscle pull in his thigh. Tuesday afternoon, pitcher-first baseman Kevin Nelson sustained an eye injury while working.

"Pitching is the key to a tournament like this. The Legion rules only allow a boy to pitch 12 innings in any 72-hour period. So when you're playing three days straight, you have to have starting depth and a bullpen," Coach Banfield said.

"If Kevin (whose eye was inflamed by a mixture of lime and cement) can go, we'll start him against Idaho Falls. Then follow with (Dennis) Warburton and then either Anderson or (Darrell) Groves," he continued.

Should Twin Falls win its opener, it will advance against the Coeur d'Alene-Boise Gems winner at 5:30 p.m. Friday. Should Twin Falls lose Thursday, it will play the loser of the same game at 10 a.m. Friday.

The champion will advance to the regional tournament, also slated for Lewiston, the following week and the winner of that one goes to the national finals.

Pairings for the first round include 10 a.m., Coeur d'Alene vs. Boise Gems; 1 p.m., Idaho Falls vs. Twin Falls; 5:30 p.m., Moscow vs. Pocatello, and 8 p.m., Lewiston vs. Payette.

"I understand the heat has been tremendous in Lewiston the past few days, something like 108 degrees. We would have liked to draw a cooler time of day, but I guess it's the same for both teams," Coach Banfield concluded.

Twin Falls will carry a 30-14 record into the tournament. Fries leads the team in hitting with a .360 average, followed by Mike Tremayne at .340, Darrell Groves .339, Kerry Wentworth .320, Rick Spriggs .319 and Mark Hanchey .305. Dick Walker has .295, followed by Nelson at .276, Dennis Warburton and Dennis Wentworth both .273 and Mike Gabica .250.

Warburton tops the pitching staff in percentage with a perfect 6-0 record while Nelson leads in wins with eight, while losing four. John Wunderlich is 5-1, Darrell Groves 5-2 and Mark Hanchey, who came out of leftfield to pitch at Jerome, is 0-1.

BOB HELMS, representing Magic Valley motorcycle clubs presents $500 check to Larry Fife, Twin Falls, at the Elk rehabilitation center in Boise. Fife was injured in a motorcycle accident and is paralyzed from the chest down as a result.

Vega, Firak grab benefit victories

JEROME — Enos Vega, Elko, and Don Firak, Elko, took the A and B main features in the open class of the TT races conducted by the motorcycle clubs of Magic Valley for Larry Fife.

The event, which drew contestants from three states, netted $500 for the injured cyclist hurt earlier this year.

Don Williams, Twin Falls; Jack Martensen, Burley, and Pat Miller, Wendell, followed Vega across the line in the A main while Bill Rudolph, Paul; Ron-Crippen, Twin Falls; and Rick Jordan, Buhl, were behind Firak.

Glen Clark, Buhl, won the 100 cc trophy dash while Jim Noble, Idaho Falls, took the 125, Dick Capps, Twin Falls, 250, and Vega, the open. In the 100 cc competition, Glen Clark; Buhl, won the A main, followed by Larry Noble, Yakima; Marty Miller, Jerome, and Tony Ardino, Jerome. The B main went to Carols Grant, Scotts Bluff, Neb., followed by Fred Flegel, Paul; Mike Zall, Halley, and Gary Gose — Pocatello.

Top four players in the 125 A main were Capps, Jim Noble, Stan Williams, Twin Falls, and Paul Schmaki, Elko, and the top four in the B main were Arellano, Tom Smith, Twin Falls; Ray Sampson, Twin Falls; and Crippen.

Capps won the 250 A-main with Allen Scherbinski, Twin Falls; Jack Moen, Burley; and Larry Hills, Halley, behind, and the B main went to Arlo Evans, Heyburn, followed by Terry Groves, Twin Falls; Dan Childs, Buhl, and Doug Suten, Jerome.

Pat Galvin, Wendell, won the midget cycle race with Roy Bartlett, Buhl, second, and Scott Montgomery, Twin Falls, in third. Marge Phifen, Twin Falls, defeated Barbara Smith, Twin Falls, for powder puff honors and Dale Olson, Twin Falls, took the wheeler contest.

Parks shows, not Thomas

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Wide receiver Billy Parks, acquired 10 days ago from the San Diego Chargers, arrived at the Dallas Cowboys' training camp Tuesday ending speculation that he might refuse to play for the Texas team.

Parks, counted among the game's premier receivers, went to Dallas along with running back Mike Montgomery in the trade in which running back Duane Thomas went to San Diego.

Also on the agenda for discussion in the two-day meeting is a proposal by Dallas to involve the second-place finishers in the playoffs. Tallis is unalterably opposed to that. "There should be no reward for finishing second," he said. "We might be playing into December and have to adjourn to Florida or somewhere."

The annual summer meetings will begin with a joint meeting presided over by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. The two leagues will meet separately today, then reconvene jointly Thursday.

Major loop owners to discuss division realignments today

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Major league baseball owners and general managers will convene here today to discuss realignment of the National and American leagues, among other things.

Nothing concrete is expected to be decided here, although if support develops, a vote could be taken at the winter meetings in Hawaii.

Two proposals for realignment are on the agenda for discussion at the Alameda Plaza Hotel. One calls for three leagues composed of eight teams each. Such a realignment might look like this: Eastern—Mets, Yankees; Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Montreal.

Central—Cubs, White Sox, St. Louis, Minnesota, Detroit, Milwaukee; Atlanta and Cincinnati. Western—Kansas City, Texas, Houston, Los Angeles, California, Oakland, San Francisco and San Diego.

The second proposal calls for four divisions of six teams each. It might look like this: Eastern—Mets, Yankees, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Montreal.

Midwestern—Pittsburgh, Cleveland; Atlanta, Cincinnati, Detroit and Minnesota. Central—Kansas City, St. Louis, Cubs, White Sox, Texas and Milwaukee.

Western—Los Angeles, California, Oakland, San Francisco, San Diego and Houston.

The second proposal is expected to draw the most support.

"Certainly, we would favor Harrison wins mighty mites."

Harrison Park, which won the city track meet a week ago, maintained its dominance by taking the Mighty Mites title against competition from other city parks.

The winners include Jacks, Karen Beem, Drury, first, and Jackie Lee, Sunrise; hopscootch, Cheryl Glesler, Harrison, and Kim Rosenthal; checkers, Lars Hovey, Harrison, and Marshal Gaines, Harmon; croquet, Steve Billings, Harrison, and Darr Wiersching, Sunrise; jump rope, Linda Bridwell, Drury, and Michelle Augustus, Sunrise; tetherball, Rick Blunt, Harry Barry, and Dana Schonkle, Harrison; box hockey, Danno Mathews, Harrison, and Danny Bee, Harry Barry, and ping pong, Harmon and Harrison.

Team scores were Harrison 9, Drury and Sunrise 4, Harmon and Harry Barry 3 and South 0.

Yanks close gap on Detroit 4-2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Celerino Sanchez' long-bases-loaded sacrifice fly drove Thurmon Munson home with what proved to be the winning run Tuesday in the Yankees 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The victory moved the Yankees just three games behind the Tigers, in the American League East.

After Sanchez' sacrifice fly, Ron Swoboda then singled home an insurance run to pin an eighth defeat on Mickey Lolich, who failed for the second time to win No. 19.

It was Lolich's error on Roy White's sacrifice bunt that set up the two unearned runs that enabled the surging Yankees and Sparky Lyle to continue their upward flight. Lyle worked the final three innings and picked up his fourth victory, second in as many games, to go with his 24 saves.

Royals keep A's on skids

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Fred Patek scored the tying run in the eighth inning and drove in the winning run in the ninth with a solid single to center Tuesday night, giving the Kansas City Royals a 4-3 victory over the slumping Oakland Athletics.

The loss was Oakland's fifth in its last six games.

Rick Schenkelman led off the ninth with a single off reliever Holke Fingers. With one out, Steve Hovey ran for Schenkelman and went to second on an unfielded out. Lou Pinella was walked intentionally and Paul Schaaf struck out.

Sox edge Cal, near loop lead

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Jay Johnstone ripped a solo homer in the third inning and Chicago added three unearned runs in the eighth after an apparent doubleplay had ended the inning Tuesday night as the White Sox beat the California Angels 4-3.

Angel nemesis Stan Bahnsen worked the first seven innings to get credit for his 15th victory against 11 defeats and the White Sox pulled to within two games of Oakland in the American League West. Chicago won for the 13th time in its last 16 decisions and Bahnsen improved his career record against the Angels to 11-3.

The loss went to Andy Messersmith, now 2-6.

Olympians open tour of 5 games

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — The 1972 U.S. Olympic basketball team will open a five-game, five-city series of exhibitions here Thursday against a team made up of former Olympic players.

The 1972 team, which will compete in the Olympic in Munich, Germany, beginning Aug. 27, is the youngest and tallest ever to represent the United States.

With eight of the 12 members only 20 years old, the average is 20.5 years. The tallest man ever to play in the Olympic basketball games will be Tom Burleson, the 7-foot-4 center from North Carolina State. The average height is 6-7.

"I don't believe this team will be beaten by the opponents," said Olympic Coach Henry Iba.

"But because of their inexperience they may beat themselves with foolish errors."

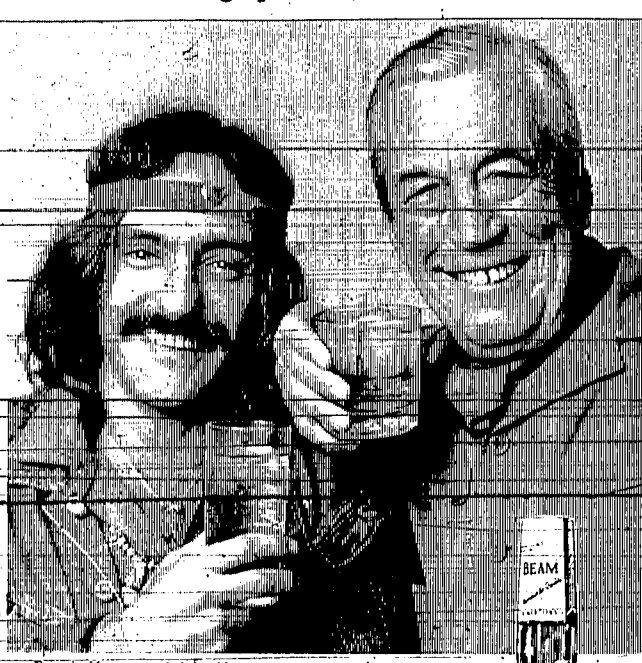

Following the game here the team will play in Los Angeles, Louisville, Ky., Greensboro, N.C., and Buffalo, N.Y., before reporting to Washington D.C. Aug. 27 to assemble for departure.

Mac blasts policy anew

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern accused the Nixon administration Tuesday of deliberately depriving Americans of jobs to fight inflation and of favoring big business with unfair tax breaks.

McGovern struck back at critics who have called him "radical" for his economic policies, declaring he wants only to close tax loopholes favoring giant corporations to ease the burden of low-income Americans.

The Democratic presidential candidate delivered his attack on "Nixonomics" at the convention of the half-million member Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, AFL-CIO.

It was the second bid in as many days by McGovern for organized labor's support, and he left with the endorsement of the 1800-delegate convention and a pledge of $25,000 for his campaign.

McGovern, speaking in the ballroom of the Americana Hotel where AFL-CIO President George Meany once snubbed Nixon, said the recession and depression during the administration of Herbert Hoover was an accident.

"President Nixon deliberately threw people out of work as a way of dealing with the problem of inflation," he charged. Since Nixon took office, an additional two million persons are unemployed, he said.

The other side of "Nixonomics," McGovern said, is a tax structure that "rewards those at the top and gouges those in the middle."

He claimed his staff had uncovered a Federal Trade Commission study several months ago which said the top 100 corporations made $15 billion a year in monopoly profits.

"Forty per cent of the corporations did not pay a single dime in income tax last year. That's an outrage that needs to be ended now," he declared.

"What I advocate is closing some of these windfalls for big business that have the effect of raising taxes of lower income people. And for that I am being branded a radical by Mr. Nixon and his cohorts."

The endorsement by acclamation from the meat cutters union followed Monday's pledge of support from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, which also promised to contribute $25,000 to McGovern's campaign.

With that backing, McGovern has achieved more than 40 per cent of his goal of winning the support of unions with 10 million membership by Labor Day.

Revenue sharing revamp approved

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee voted Tuesday to revamp revenue sharing legislation so as to give more to rural states and less to large urban states.

Thirty-three states would get more than provided in a House-approved bill and 17 states and the District of Columbia would get less. The legislation would distribute $5.3 billion a year of federal revenues to states and local governments.

The new formula was approved by the committee by a 10-2 vote, with the opposition by Sens. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb. Of 16 states represented on the committee, 13 would get more than under the House bill.

Senators from large, urban states may fight on the Senate floor to restore the old formula. But they will be outnumbered by senators from rural states. The bill is expected to go before the Senate in about a week.

The Finance Committee formula would take into account only three factors—a state's population, per capita income (so the poorer states would get more) and percentage of taxes it imposes on its residents.

The House bill also would take into account how much of a state's population lived in urban centers and whether the state imposed an income tax.

The Senate committee must still approve a formula under which two-thirds of the revenue-sharing funds would be distributed to nearly 30,000 county and local governments. The remaining one-third would be spent by state governments.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., a senior member of the Finance Committee, said the House bill would have given the most aid to "the big industrial states and financial centers" like New York and California. The House formula reflected dominance in the House by urban states.

Ketchum council OK's home building limits

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — A measure to limit temporarily construction in general residential areas brought protests from developers at the Ketchum City Council meeting Monday.

The interim measure, passed by the Council by a 3-2 vote, would exclude multiple family dwelling construction from general residential areas, allowing only one family residence per lot or one two-family dwelling.

According to a petition from the Ketchum Planning and Zoning Commission, which sought the action, the measure was designed to "protect" existing general residential areas until a new zoning ordinance, setting up general high density residential zones, is established in October.

Voting for the measure were Councilmen Gerald Sidwell and Glenn Brannen. Councilwoman

JoAnn Algiers and Councilman Vern McClellan voted no. Mayor Kenneth Richey broke the tie by voting yes.

After the vote, Richey said, "We have to start somewhere. This is only a temporary measure. He said he felt that some consideration should be given in the new zoning ordinance to developers who had planned for and applied for lots for multiple family dwellings.

But he said the zoning change would only affect about five parcels of land. "We have to think about the people who come to Ketchum in the future," Richey said.

Councilwoman Algiers said she thought the zoning changes should be presented all at one time. Councilman McClellan said he didn't feel the measure "was necessary at this time."

Saying he favored implementation of the zoning changes on a "slower scale," he said, "There is too much at stake. Previous warning should have been given and peoples' investments should be considered."

A poll of those present at the meeting indicated 12 favored the measure and 16 were opposed.

Planning and Zoning Commission member James Russett said work on the new zoning ordinance was initiated about a year and a half ago in response to recommendations by the council and city planner Arlo Nelson, Boise.

"In the last year, the major problem has been general residential areas as regards to the growth and development of Ketchum," Russett said. He said the ordinance would contain provisions to "centralize" high density residential dwellings in order that "we do not end up with four and eightplexes scattered throughout general residential areas."

Tentatively under the new ordinance, two general residential zone classifications will be established, the commission member said.

Low density residential will have duplexes as a maximum density. High density residential may have the same classification as the present general residential which allows multiple family dwellings, he said.

"Lodging protests against Monday's interim measure was developer Jack Corroch. Terminating the move, "giving the lion the meat so now we have to get it back from him," Corroch said the new zoning ordinance should be submitted point-by-point, not "snuck in early."

Corroch said investment and planning for a development usually is carried out one year before construction. He said consideration should be given to a grace period to allow building of developments which have already been planned.

Another developer, Michael Root, said he purchased land in general residential zone because multiple family dwellings were allowed. "It is unfair to change the zoning overnight against us," he said.

Twin Falls attorney Douglas Kramer, who represented the Western International Development Corp., said the company holds 72,000 square feet of land in Warm Springs which he said represented a $120,000 investment. Kramer said the zoning measure "would seriously jeopardize the firm's financial interest because the land had been sold under an option, providing that condominiums could be built."

No-fault bill stalls

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Federal no-fault auto insurance is dead for the rest of this year.

A Senate vote of 49-46 Tuesday night killed a bill which would have put the insurance reform plan into nationwide within 18 months.

Magnuson and other backers called the Judiciary Committee the bill's "graveyard." Conservatives dominate that panel.

The backers said no-fault insurance would have saved motorists millions of dollars. They said 44 cents of every auto insurance premium dollar goes to pay legal fees rather than to pay accident victims.

The need for all but a fraction of auto negligence suits would have been eliminated under the no-fault bill.

Under the concept, accident victims are compensated for their injuries and economic losses by the insurance company covering the car in which they were riding without regard to whom was at fault in the accident.

Under the present system, the company covering the car whose driver is found to be at fault must pay damages. That determination often takes months and requires costly trials. Out-of-court settlements are often for only a fraction of the actual damages suffered.

Opponents said the bill was of questionable constitutionality and deprived victims of their right to sue for intangible damages—the pain and suffering and mental anguish of being involved in a crash.

Ford gets rights to engine design

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. has dusted off some 156-year-old plans and obtained exclusive rights for a piston engine that can run on almost any liquid fuel, even olive oil.

It could possibly become an alternative to the pollution-causing internal combustion engine.

The Rev. Robert Stirling, a Scottish clergyman, came up with the idea for the engine in 1816. A Dutch firm started refining the plan in 1938, and on Tuesday Ford signed a contract for rights to help the Dutch firm get the engine on the road.

The power plant is smaller and simpler than a steam engine of comparable power, but works on the similar principle of a heat source in a chamber outside the cylinders. That makes the engine quiet, Eard says.

The Stirling engine operates by compressing a gas and letting it expand, which drives pistons connected to a rotating drive shaft.

Ford President Lee A. Iacocca said the company is now further along with development of the gas turbine engine but still is investigating several power sources.

General Motors Corp. has been working on the Stirling engine since 1957, and even produced an experimental model for an Army power generator in 1957. But GM said it found some kinks in the Stirling.

GM said in May, 1969, that the Stirling had about twice the thermal (heat) efficiency of the steam engine and had favorable emission characteristics.

Wyoming boy, 10, 'fading'

LOVELL, Wyo. (UPI)—A ten-year-old boy who returned to his childhood home to die of incurable brain cancer entered a hospital Tuesday where he was reported "fading rapidly."

Donald Blackburn took his son, Danny, to North Big Horn Hospital after he noticed the youth's condition worsening.

"It has us quite concerned," Blackburn said. "We want to see if they can bring him back."

The youth, hospitalized in the Denver area for 18 months, returned to his boyhood home in Lovell three days ago after doctors said there was nothing more they could do.

Because he was using oxygen-breathing equipment, he was denied a berth on a Western Airlines flight. The airline cited Federal Aviation Administration regulations. After hearing of his plight, Frontier Airlines agreed to admit the boy on one of its flights.

FAA officials in Denver said they are investigating to determine if Frontier violated federal rules by carrying the dying boy on its flight.

"If the FAA believes there has been a violation of FAA rules, then we investigate," said spokesman Al Barnes.

Frontier allowed Danny on its flight because he was in the care of a qualified nurse and could be seated in a restricted smoking area, an airline official said.

Wagons recalled

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. is recalling its entire production of 1972 Ford station wagons to correct a possible defect which could allow jacks to slip out of rear bumpers.

Ford Tuesday said that about 30 per cent of the 164,396 cars involved in the recall were suspected of having a bumper support obstructing two slots provided for jack insertion. The problem could cause a car to drop from a raised position,

Ford said. A spokesman from Ford's customer service division said the condition has resulted in no reported injuries. Ford is providing dealers with a special tool to enlarge the slot for the bumper jack.

The recall involves 157,467 station wagons sold to customers in the United States, 6,588 sold to Canadian customers and 361 sold overseas.

House OK's bus limit bill

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—A House committee Tuesday approved President Nixon's bill to restrict court-ordered school busing and a full House vote on the measure appeared certain.

Vatican clothing regulation eased

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican lifted a year old ban Tuesday and allowed visitors wearing hot pants, see-through blouses and other clothing it considered immodest or indecent to enter St. Peter's basilica provided they agreed to cover up with plastic checkered raincoats issued by attendants.

By noon, Vatican sources said about 500 persons, most of them women, had donned the raincoats in order to visit the world's largest Roman Catholic church.

Vatican sources said all persons borrowing the raincoats were asked to contribute cash for upkeep and maintenance of St. Peter's. They said donations averaged about 25 cents.

Black with white checks, the raincoats looked somewhat like ponchos, covering the shoulders and falling to knee length for persons of average height.

The Vatican imposed a ban on persons judged immodestly or indecently dressed last August and assigned a nun named Sister Fiorella (Little Flower) to guard against anyone trying to enter the basilica dressed in miniskirts, hot pants, see-through blouses, low cut sweaters and shirt-pant combinations which left the midriff bare, shorts and similar attire.

But Sister Fiorella was relieved a few weeks later. The Vatican said she was suffering from nervous exhaustion.

Men replaced her and maintained a close watch on the thousands of tourists and pilgrims who visit the basilica every week. Anyone arguing was ordered away by male ushers shouting "via" or "fuori" (get out).

early next week.

The bill, one of two antibusing bills Nixon sent Congress last March, would set guidelines for desegregating schools with busing as a last resort. Cross-town busing of grade school pupils would be banned under any circumstance.

The Education and Labor Committee voted 21 to 16 for the bill which would also set aside $500 million a year for two years to improve so-called "inferior" schools. The money would come from the $1 billion a year already authorized in law to help schools pay the costs of desegregation.

The House Rules Committee, meantime, meeting to consider the second Nixon measure that would order a moratorium on any new court ordered busing, said it would take up both the guidelines bill and the moratorium measure on Thursday with a goal of sending one or both of the bills to the floor for a vote early next week.

The rules panel, a week ago, took from the Judiciary Committee a long-stalled constitutional amendment to ban racial busing and ordered that to the floor. Chairman William Colmer, D-Miss., said he was "inclined" not to call up the amendment until the guidelines and moratorium measures were disposed of in the House.

Nixon has urged Congress to first consider his moratorium bill which would ban new busing orders until July 1 or until enactment of his guidelines measure. He said immediate action was needed to stop "excessive" busing before the start of school next month.

Party reform pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four liberal-Republican senators called Tuesday for broad reforms in their party's structure and convention procedures.

The aim of the reforms they said in Senate speeches, is to open the party to wider participation among women, minorities and the young.

"We're trying to bring the Republican party into the 20th century," said Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, already being mentioned as a prospect for the GOP presidential nomination in 1976. "There is no need for kicking and screaming. We all want to do it."

Sen. Robert Packwood of Oregon joined in: "What we are trying to do is to make sure the Republican party is responsive to change in American history. Not to every change in public opinion, but to change in public philosophy."

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland said the GOP was in a position this year to stress reforms since President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew are assured of renomination at the convention starting Aug. 21 at Miami Beach.

"With that fact established beyond a reasonable doubt, we can turn at this convention from the burdens of nominations and dedicate ourselves to examining the process by which we govern our party and select the most powerful men in the world," Mathias said.

Baldwin machines sold off

EDDYSTONE, Pa. (UPI) — Matthew Baldwin would not at all be pleased. They sold off Tuesday.

The machinery at the huge Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton plant is being sold at a two-week auction, that will bring an official end to the firm that was once made most of the world's steam locomotive. The plant made bulldozers and cranes before it was shut down last May.

Baldwin was a shrewd Yankee inventor, who was the first American to build a steam engine to successfully power a train in the United States. That was in 1831.

He went on to build steam locomotives for dictators, czars and kings.

Baldwin locomotives powered the first trains in Brazil and Japan. They pulled passengers over the Rockies on the Pike's Peak Railroad, and across Russia, on the Trans-Siberian Railway.

At one time, after his death in 1906, Baldwin's firm employed 28,000 workers who made 1,000 locomotives a year. But the firm continued to make steam locomotives while most railroads switched to diesels.

Bank sees tomato use in US rising

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bank of America predicted today that U.S. consumption of tomatoes and tomato product would soar to 7.5 million tons by 1978.

This, bank agricultural experts said, would be a 12 per cent increase over the figure for 1971. They also said that California producers of processing tomatoes were expected to increase their share of total U.S. production from 71 per cent last year to 76 per cent in 1978.

"Consumers are shifting from fresh to processed tomatoes primarily because of the greater convenience and variety of the processed product and because of the consistent high quality of processed tomato products," bank economists said.

Per capita consumption of processing tomatoes was expected to increase from 52 pounds in 1971 to 58 pounds in 1978, they said, while per capita consumption of fresh tomatoes drops from 12.2 pounds in 1971 to 12.1 pound in 1978.

The bank economists said key factors in the fresh tomatoes outlook include fluctuations in supply and prices and some "consumer dissatisfaction" with the quality of the fresh product — sometimes affected by early harvesting and mechanized harvesting.

They said returns to processing tomato producers in the state would reach $140 million in 1978, three per cent higher than last year's level.

Fresh tomato receipts were forecast to reach $84 million in 1978 — up from $82.56 million in 1971.

Idaho farm prices rise slightly

BOISE — Idaho farmers received slightly more for their products on July 15 than June 15, according to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Crop prices were about the same as June 15 a year ago but livestock prices showed modest advances. Beef cattle prices were 34.20 per cent on July 15 compared with 33.80 a month earlier. Hogs gained $2.10, going from $24.30 to $24.80. Eggs and milk also showed slight increases. On the crop side, only alfalfa hay advanced in price during the month. Wheat and beans decreased while other crops stayed the same. Compared with levels one year ago, all items are now higher priced except wheat, barley and dry peas. Livestock prices are sharply above levels a year ago. Prices paid by Idaho farmers for a selected group of feed concentrates were about the same July 15 as mid-June. Prices for soybean meal and dairy feed went up while bran, middlings and laying declined. Higher prices for hogs, potatoes, eggs, cattle, milk and onions contributed most to the increase. Farmers throughout the U.S. paid higher prices for cottonseed meal, soybean meal, concentrates.

Also participating in the study of the pine beetles are the U. S. Forest Experiment Stations and regional offices in Ogden, Utah, Missoula, Mont., and Moscow, and several other universities including Washington State University, Pullman. Stark said that the mountain pine bark beetle was selected because it is probably the most destructive of the pine bark beetles. It is believed that the techniques developed to control this and the other two species will provide the knowledge to control other beetle species such as the Douglas fir beetle and the fir engraver.

Idaho conducts control project

MOSCOW — The University of Idaho is one of 10 universities currently participating in a project aimed ultimately at aiding the biological control of pests which destroy a significant share of six major crops.

The main thrust of the research will be to develop a new pest management program to help farmers and foresters control pests more economically and effectively, according to Dr. Ronald W. Stark, University of Idaho coordinator of research and dean of the graduate school.

Biological control of pests which affect alfalfa, cotton, pines, pome and stone, as well as citrus fruits and soybeans will be considered. Methods will include thwarting their development and reproduction by biochemical means, introduction of natural enemies into pest populations and developing insect-resistant plants.

The program is being supported for the first day by the U. S. Department of Agriculture the National Science Foundation and the Environmental Protection Agency. The US-International Biological Program is the sponsoring body and the NSF is the central funding agency and will continue to be the main supporting agency in future years.

Research for the first year of the program is supported by a $1 million grant to the University of California at Berkeley which will administer the program with the other institutions as subcontractors.

The sub-project with which the University of Idaho is involved is the pine bark beetle under the direction of Dr. Stark.

Three bark beetles are under investigation: the southern pine beetle in southeastern U.S., the western pine beetle which is attacking ponderosa pine in California, and the mountain pine beetle in the Intermountain area.

Also participating in the study of the pine beetles are the U. S. Forest Experiment Stations and regional offices in Ogden, Utah, Missoula, Mont., and Moscow, and several other universities including Washington State University, Pullman.

Stark said that the mountain pine bark beetle was selected because it is probably the most destructive of the pine bark beetles. It is believed that the techniques developed to control this and the other two species will provide the knowledge to control other beetle species such as the Douglas fir beetle and the fir engraver.

Hearing at Boise called off

BURLEY — The public hearing set for Thursday on proposed rules and regulations for environmental protection at livestock confinement facilities has been postponed.

The hearing had been scheduled in Boise. The postponement is a result of two weeks of statewide informational meetings which were held to explain the proposed regulations to cattlemen and dairy operators.

The informational meetings brought to light potential problem areas that need careful consideration before a meaningful hearing can be held. The postponement is also needed to completely advise the Board... of Environmental Protection and Health on the proposed regulations.

A new hearing date will be set soon, with time date and place announced.

Sworn in

KING HILL — James L. Bellegante, Glenns Ferry, has been sworn in as director of the King Hill Irrigation District. Bellegante replaces D.D. Anderson as director for precinct No. 3 of the irrigation district. The swearing in came at the August board meeting.

Latest Presidential jet being readied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In 1943 when FDR wanted to go to Casablanca—for a wartime strategy session—with Winston Churchill, the Secret Service decided the menace of German submarines was too serious to permit a trip by ship.

So on Jan. 11, Roosevelt inaugurated the age of presidential air travel by taking off from Dinner Key, Fla., aboard the "Dixie-Clipper," a Pan-American flying boat. It took him more than three days to reach his destination.

Sixteen years later, Dwight Eisenhower ushered in the jet age, making an 8,700-mile trip to Bonn, London and Paris in 19 hours, 27 minutes of flying time.

Since then Presidents have concluded that this is the only way to travel long distances and the silver, blue and white presidential jet is a familiar sight to millions.

The Air Force now is engaged in purchasing a new one. With its acquisition, No. 26000, military version of the Boeing-707, will be retired to a secondary role.

It was aboard 26000 that the 36th President was sworn into office Nov. 22, 1963, and it then carried the body of the 35th President back to Washington from Dallas.

It has flown almost 2 million miles, to all five continents, transporting the rich and powerful in graceful comfort. In its cabins, Presidents from Kennedy to Nixon have pondered some of their most important decisions.

It is the airplane which carried a U.S. President on unprecedented visits to Peking and Moscow.

Its first mission was to carry John F. Kennedy to Hyde Park for the funeral of Eleanor Roosevelt on Nov. 10, 1962.

According to Col. Ralph D. Albertazzi, President Nixon's pilot, the new jet, to be designated 27000, will be a newer version of the same airplane and will go into presidential service some time in January.

Its exterior will be identical to the "Spirit of 76," as 26000 has been dubbed by Nixon. It will have the same 7,000-mile range and 530 mile per hour cruising speed. Its length—a little more than half that of a football field—will be the same. The interior will be a bit different, with separate state-rooms for the President and first lady and a lounge for staff conferences. There will be separate compartments for guests, staff members and the press—accommodations for 57 persons.

The new plane will cost more than $9 million when completely outfitted, according to Albertazzi.

Albertazzi and his crew went to the Boeing plant at Seattle, Wash., this week to pick up the plane and fly it to Addison, Tex., a suburb of Dallas. Collins Radio Co. will install complicated communications equipment and Qualitron-Aero will complete the interior.

First Lady Pat Nixon chose the blue and cream colors for the interior.

About the middle of November, the plane will be flown back to Seattle for painting in the same distinctive blue, white and silver design with the American flag on the tail and the "United States of America" painted on its sides.

After the painting, an extensive series of check flights and safety inspections will be held. Albertazzi reckons it will fly about 100 hours before it is considered ready for presidential use.

About mid-January it will take over the primary role of transporting the President and 26000 will become the main backup plane.

Russian opposes telling

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Soviet minister of health said Monday he believes joint American-Russian research will help conquer heart disease. But he disagreed with American doctors on one aspect of cancer treatment.

"We never tell a patient he has cancer," Dr. Boris Petrovsky said. "The patient never dies content if he knows he has cancer."

American doctors generally think it is better to tell a patient he has cancer.

Petrovsky is on a tour of U.S. medical facilities. His remarks came during a visit to the Texas Heart Institute where he was greeted by an old friend, heart specialist Dr. Michael DeBakey.

Petrovsky said heart disease and cancer will receive the most attention under the new American-Russian agreement to cooperate in studying health problems.

"In these two areas, we will share our views and our achievements will be of equal value," Petrovsky said.

Petrovsky praised DeBakey's research on an artificial heart and said Russian scientists were progressing in the same field.

During the tour the Russian minister stopped to watch researchers artificially cause an Irish setter to have a heart attack so they could study the chemistry of its heart.

"Do you have any trouble using dogs?" he asked. "In England, I know their experimental use is limited."

DeBakey said researchers are careful to meet test criteria established by the National Institutes of Health.

"You know, dogs are very highly thought of in our country," the Russian said. "We built a monument to them. Dogs helped nurses carry the wounded in World War II."

Cowboy may set record

DENVER (UPI) — Cowboy Phil Lyne of George West, Tex., who dethroned Larry Mahan as world champion rodeo cowboy last year, could surpass a record set by Mahan three years ago, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said today.

Lyne, 25, has won $35,311 this season and could surpass the total prize money of $57,728 taken home by Mahan in 1969. The winnings by the Salem, Ore., cowboy set a record for a single season.

Lyne is about $1,500 behind Mahan's total at this time in 1969—Lyne is more than $6,000 ahead of Mahan this year, with Mahan sidelined for a few more weeks because of injuries.

The association said the biggest money winner on the pro rodeo circuit last week was John Holman of Kaycee, Wyo., who picked up $1,422 in saddle bronc riding at the Central Wyoming Fair rodeo in Casper.

Current leaders in the standings include:

J.C. Bonine, Hysam, Mont., saddle bronc riding, $10,564; Joe Alexander, Cora, Wyo., bareback bronc riding, $21,929; John Quintana, Eugene, Ore., bull riding, $17,637; Dean Oliver, Boise, Idaho, calf roping, $20,214; Roy Duvall, Warner, Okla., steer wrestling, $17,444; Gary Gist, Lakeland, Calif., team roping, $8,031; Allen Keller, Olathe, Colo., steer roping, $4,756; and Jenna Day, Woodward, Okla., girls' barrel racing, $7,266.

Prisoners charge sheriff

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Six prisoners at the Weber County Jail have taken the sheriff to court to make him improve conditions at their temporary home.

The six plaintiffs complain that they are crowded into a 12 by 14 foot day room for 12 hours out of 24 and forced to sit or lie on a cold concrete floor or steel bench.

They've asked Second District Court for a writ of mandamus forcing Sheriff Ed Ryan to improve conditions.

In their petition, they said they are forced "to undergo a continuous, woeful vitamin-deficient diet" denied adequate medical care and their mail is censored.

In a response filed with the court Sheriff Ryan said there is adequate medical care and the prisoners eat the same food the jailers do.

Jail rooms are small, he said, but they were not designed to be used as cells. Prisoners are allowed to take their blankets into the day-room, and security precautions are taken with mail but it is not censored, he said.

Plans are underway for a new facility to replace the escape-ridden jail now housed in the municipal building.

Radio Free Europe funded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has received for his signature legislation that would give government support for one more year to Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty.

The House passed the bill 375 to 7 Monday. It authorized appropriations of up to $38.5 million for the two privately owned stations which beam broadcasts behind the Iron Curtain.

A presidential commission has been assigned the job of studying the operations of the stations and making recommendations for the future relationship between them and the government. There was controversy in Congress last year when it was disclosed that the government had been secretly providing financial help to the stations.

The common garden snail has 14,175 teeth in 135 rows of 105 each.

GOP to limit taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Programs proposed in the Democratic party platform would boost the federal budget by $144 billion and would necessitate a tax increase of about $1,000 for the average family, Republican Congressional leaders said Tuesday.

Following a meeting of more than two hours with President Nixon, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan promised there would be no tax increase next year if the GOP president is reelected.

Scott said the $144 billion figure, which represents more than a 50 per cent increase in the $250 billion government budget, was developed by Director Caspar Weinberger of the Office of Management and Budget.

Scott said the biggest item in the hypothetical projection would be more than $60 billion for a national system of health insurance.

The Democrats place no price tag on programs in their budget.

Ford said if Congress approves Nixon's proposal for a spending ceiling of $250 billion for the current fiscal year there would be no need for a tax boost next year. But he said under McGovern's spending plans, "the prospect of a tax increase are certain."

Scott said approval of McGovern's proposal for a $1,000 grant to every individual would cost $188 billion. McGovern, who originally suggested the grant as part of a combination welfare and tax reform, has withdrawn the idea for reconsideration.

FHA may repair mistakes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Charles McNairy, R-Ind., introduced a bill today under which the federal government would have to foot the bill for repairs if FHA inspectors approved shoddy houses.

Percy said the Federal Housing Administration had been giving approval to some homes which could not meet the FHA's own standards for federally backed mortgages.

He said a recent nationwide inspection involving more than 1,200 FHA-insured homes showed that a third had serious problems.

Auditors found deficiencies in 25 per cent of the new homes in the sample, 42 per cent of older homes and 50 per cent of all inner city homes inspected, Percy said.

He said the FHA was allowing speculators and builders to "peddle defective homes" at inflated prices to a large new class of inexperienced and unsophisticated low-income homebuyers.

Under his bill, federal funds would compensate homeowners for repairs made necessary by shoddy construction, poor inspection of existing houses or code violations if the FHA had approved the housing.

Residency rejected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A federal judge Monday overturned an Ohio law requiring people to live in the state at least six months to be eligible to vote.

U.S. District Court Judge Carl Rubin made permanent a temporary restraining order issued March 31 by another judge of the court. The decision substitutes a 30-day residency requirement throughout Ohio for all elections.

"This decision makes it easier for students and semi-transients to become eligible to vote," said Benon Wolman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, which filed the challenge.

Brazil, unlike the United States, has a "northern drawl" in its speech.

L. M. Boyd

"Some pray to marry the man they love, my prayer will somewhat vary: I humbly pray to heaven above That I love the man I marry."

Rose Pastor Stokes

Among any 50 men of her general age, a girl can locate at least one fellow she can truly love. Among any 100 girls of his general age, a man can meet at least one young lady who can truly love. So contends a matrimonial specialist. That explains Mrs. Stokes' prayer, doesn't it? In matters of romance, it's known men to have a far more difficult time finding the real thing, so they're apt to sample indiscriminately. The girls, however, seem to be able to make up their minds among total strangers in a crowded room, almost.

JUST AS soon as the pretty little lady wins the Miss America contest, she starts to gain weight. Such has been the disconcerting pattern. It's that subsequent year of invitational banquets, I'm told.

Q. "Do Eskimos get arthritis?"
A. Everybody gets arthritis. Not each single soul, certainly. But everybody like Eskimos, the Rockefellers, Australian bushmen, TV actors, Chinese cooks, the Oakland Raiders, everybody.

Q. "How tall is Alex Karras, late of the Detroit Lions?"
A. Just 6-foot-2. Exactly the same height as Chicago's now-departed, Bushman, history's most famous gorilla.

LASHES
Am advised a sizable batch of the 50-million false eyelashes bought every year are put into fishing lures.

FACT THAT the so-called ribbon machine blows light bulbs isn't the point. Point is it can blow 2,000 light bulbs in one minute without even taking a breath.

WHAT, you've never heard of "If"? That's a little island in the Mediterranean. It's too flip to move, that the island next door be named "When"? And that both be turned into leisure spas for souls hoping to make enough money to retire comfortably?

THE WATER BED isn't new. The snazzier old Romans employed some such a thing. It was hung on ropes from overhead, shaped like a cradle, filled with warm water. The insomnia soaked therein up to the chin while a servant industriously rocked the thing back and forth. History records this device virtually assured a good night's deep sleep for the servant.
